GAYNOR IS PAST CRISIS; RECOVERY SEEMS ASSURED

HOBOKEN, Aug. 11—Mayor Gaynor at 9:43 A. M. to-day passed the forty-eight hour crisis. No indications of blood poisoning were apparent, and it is said at St. Mary's hospital that the patient's recovery is now practically assured.

The wound was dressed at 8 A. M., and the following bulletin was given out shortly before 9 o'clock.

The wound has been dressed and looks well. He converses cheerfully, and the situation is encouraging.

(Signed) WILLIAM J. ARLITZ, M. D
GEORGE D. STEWART, M. D.

At 8 o'clock Drs. Arlitz and Stewart issued the following bulletin:

Mayor Gaynor's temperature is 100 1-5, pulse 75, respiration is 17. He passed a good night and slept well, although there were a few wakeful intervals, due to nervousness. He is now sleeping.

Dr. Arlitz states that the Mayor's condition was more favorable this morning than at any time since he was brought to the hospital. He is very cheerful and confident that he will recover.

Though the general belief has been that only one bullet struck the Mayor Tuesday, when he was shot by James Gallagher and that this divided, lodging in two positions, reports were current to-day that two of the three shots fired by the assassin had found the mark at which he aimed. This rumor was strengthened by the reticence of the physicians.

"I have said all that I am going to say in the bulletin," said Dr. Arlitz.

Gertrude Gaynor, a daughter, arrived to-day from the home at St. James, but Mrs. Gaynor told her she could not see her father. Fire Commissioner Waldo and "Big Bill" Edwards called at the hospital, but were also barred. Thomas Gaynor, brother of the Mayor, left for Baltimore on business to-day.

Another consultation of the physicians will be held at 8:30 this evening.

Further news of the Gaynor shooting and the Mayor's condition are found on Page 2.

CHAPLAIN FAVORS CANTEEN

By depriving soldiers of the canteen, where they could get a glass of pure beer when they wanted it, Congress has forced them to seek bad company where they drink to excess.

This was the declaration of the Rev. George J. Waring, chaplain attached to the Eleventh United States Cavalry, at to-day's session of the Catholic Temperance Abstinence Union of America, at Faneuil Hall.

Chaplain Waring is a delegate to the convention as the chosen representative of the War Department. He said that not more than 5 per cent. of his regiment were total abstainers, although not more than 5 per cent. were hard drinkers. Theatres, hotels and restaurants discriminate against the soldiers, the clergman said. Then he added:

The Soldier Shunned.

"What can we reasonably expect a soldier to do under such circumstances? He has been deprived of a canteen where he was acustomed to get a glass of beer without going away from his post, and where he could neither meet bad company nor drink to excess. He is shunned by all respectables people, whose doors are closed in his face, so that he has no chance of imbibing higher ideals from them. His self respect is crushed within him, and he naturally enters the only open door—unhappily, the door of the saloon is only the vestibule to the brothel. Not infrequently where soldiers are welcomed, they are one and he same.

Delegates Attend Mass.

Earlier in the day delegates and members of the union thronged the Cathedral of the Holy Cross where a solemn requiem high mass was offered for the souls of the departed members and workers in the cause of temperance.

The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, C. S. P., of Chicago, national president of the C. T. A. U. He was assisted by the Rev. Maurice J. O'Connor, D. D., as deacon, and the Rev. Charles A. O'Brien as sub-deacon.

From the Cathedral the delegates proceeded to Faneuil Hall where the con-

MADE 'MONKEYS' OUT OF INDIANS

McALESTER, Okla., Aug. 11—"If the government had such high and lofty notions about conserving the Choctaws' coal for future generations, let the government buy it with our money," said Dan Doll, the hide dame off us said Dr. J. H. Miller, an intermarried citizen from Antlers, who appeared before the Congressional committee here to-day.

"In 1902 I went out and told my people to vote for the supplementary treaty under promise that everything would be wound up by March 4, 1906, and they ratified it. Here it is nearly five years, and I feel like a monkey.

"We could have taken two clerks and wound up the business in half that time."

The statement precipitated a long discussion with the committee on the one hand defending Congress and the will hand defending it for dilatory methods.

CANNON KEEPS SILENT ON KANSAS

CHICAGO, Aug. 11—Uncle Joe Cannon arrived in Chicago to-day from his vacation at Mackinack Island, willing to talk about everything but politics.

"I return in Kansas," he remarked, "spent for themselves. Later on, in a week or ten days, perhaps, I will have some comment to make on the results there. Perhaps the papers will publish what I have to say and perhaps not." Regarding the shooting of Mayor Gaynor, Mr. Cannon said: "That was sad news for me. I am delighted, however, to learn that the chances for his recovery are good.

BELLE ELMORE SURGERY VICTIM

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A valuable point in the case against Dr. H. H. Crippen, now held in Quebec on a charge of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore, here, was established to-day when it was learned that an operation killed the victim.

A five-hour examination of the mutilated remains found buried in the cellar at No. 39 Hilldrop Crescent, North London, it was stated, had resulted in the sweeping away of all doubt as to the identity of the victim.

As one of the two trophies in the competition has been donated by President Taft unusual interest is lent to-day to the Spanish-American sonder races at Marblehead next week, following the announcement that King Alfonso is backing the three yachts to represent his country in the international meet.

The approaching races are regarded in the light of an exhibition of good will between Spain and the United States, and the desire of the Spanish sovereign to be on friendly terms with this country. The hostile sentiments of a dozen years ago are forgotten. The heads of the two nations are as much interested in the sporting event as the crews of the sonder-klasse boats. The spirit of the contest is for the best boat to win, and hats off to the winner.

The Spanish boats have arrived in New York, aboard the Spanish steamer Montevideo, from Cadiz, and come to Boston to-day. The three boats will be taken to Marblehead, where they will be taken for a spin to-morrow.

The Spanish Entries.

The three yachts are the entries of the following Spanish yacht clubs: The Palmeos, entered by the San Sebastian Club; Joyette II., by the Santander Club, and the Chonta, by the Bilbao Club. The boats represent the pick of the Spanish sonder fleet.

Each yacht arrived to-day in the command of its own crew, made up of members of the several clubs. On the Palmeos are Javior Pena, Francisco Tuton and Mario Amoveda. With the Mosquito II. are Victorino Lopez Durain, Juan Jose Quintana and Manuel G. Del Corral. The Chonta's crew is Luis Arana, Damin Estrela and Eduardo Astegarags.

The races will start August 17. The events will continue until either country has won three races. The winner will then be declared. The trophies are handsome cups, secured through the work of the Eastern Yacht Club. One is the cup given by President Taft. This is valued at $1,000. The other trophy is a fine cup given by Governor Draper and valued at $500. When the races are over the presentation will be made, if possible, aboard the Mayflower, and President Taft is expected to award the trophies to the winning nation.

Smooth National Wrinkles.

The arrangements for the races have been conducted by the Eastern Yacht Club's Spanish-American racing committee. To the members is due the credit of having made it possible for the two countries to meet in friendly competition, and through sport to smooth away whatever wrinkles of

RAMPOLLA MAY DEAL WITH SPAIN

ROME, Aug. 11—Cardinal Rampolla, former papal secretary of state, is leading a movement to bring about peace with Spain at the cost of a recession from the Vatican's present attitude, according to a semi-official report here to-day.

It is said that a secret consistory will be held to-morrow at which Cardinal Rampolla will be put in charge of the Spanish pointions, though Cardinal Merry del Val will retain his post as secretary of State.

PLAGUE PANIC IN ST. PETERSBURG

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11.—The cholera epidemic has invaded high circles. The Countess Gurowska and a noted army officer, Colonel Shalister, died to-day of the plague, and the upper classes are in a panic.

Hundreds of persons have started from St. Petersburg, or are preparing to flee. Extreme precautions are being taken to prevent the disease from reaching any of the royal estates in town or country. The spread of the disease is unchecked and the death list continues around a thousand a day, a total number of victims since the first of the year now being more than 60,000.

The invasion of wealthy and exclusive quarters will, it is believed, lead to more strenuous efforts to check slaughter in the working classes. Officialism to-day is besieged by persons of importance, demanding that special efforts be made to safeguard the upper classes.

AID RUSHED TO LAKE SHIP ON HELP CALL

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A wireless message from the steamer Christopher Columbus says an excursion steamer is on fire in Lake Michigan, twelve miles from Milwaukee. The Christopher Columbus has gone to the rescue. Fire tugs have been dispatched from Chicago.

A message received by one of the wireless companies said that the steamer Tennessee had gone to the side of the burning vessel and was taking off the crew and passengers.

The North American Wireless Corporation was hampered in getting information from the Christopher Columbus by the warning of the operator on that boat. He flashed:

"Look out for burning boat. Look out for burning boat. Don't interfere or ask for information, but look out for burning boat."

At 11:45 o'clock a flash received said the vessel appeared to be beyond saving. The name of the burning boat has not been learned.

A message from the steamer Tennessee says that boats have taken off the crew of the burning vessel, but makes no mention of passengers. The ship is directly in the path of dozens of vessels in the Chicago and Milwaukee trade.

TAKING PASSENGERS FROM BURNING BOAT.

A wireless message received at 12 o'clock said that the burning vessel was a passenger boat and that boats from the Tennessee were taking off the passengers.

ELLEN FOSTER, NOTED WOMAN LAWYER, DEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, one of the most famous women lawyers in the country died to-day following an operation. She was born in Lowell, Mass., seventy years ago, and was the widow of E. J. Foster, who died here four years ago.

Mrs. Foster has been a resident of Washington for many years.

She was prominent in prison work and especially seeking to ameliorate the condition of female prisoners. She was prominent in other movements for the uplift of women.

In October of 1906 Mrs. Foster was detailed by President Roosevelt from the Department of Justice, where, on account of her legal ability she had long been employed, to investigate the conditions of women and child workers throughout the country. She spent a long time in New York and later came to this city and from here traveled all over New England.

Many years of her life were devoted to philanthropic work. She was one of the first women in the country to study and to practice law, and most of her clients were moneyless and defenceless women and children. She was prominent in most of the reform movements which engage women's societies and clubs and usually was given the task of crystalling sentiment into political action.

On two different occasions she took speNew England to Washington to testify before Senate committees as to their wages and living conditions. In 1900, Mrs. Foster was appointed by Secretary of State Day to represent the United States in the International Red Cross conference at St. Petersburg. She went with Taft to the Philippines in 1903, and made a report on the condition of women and children there.

ARMOUR'S PARTNER CALLED PERJURER

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Thomas G. Lee of Armour & Company to-day was indicted for perjury by the federal Grand Jury investigating the beef trust charges. Lee, when on the stand was asked whether Jerome H. Platt, also of Armours & Company, had not attended a meeting of packers to fix prices which was held in Attorney Albert H. Veeder's office. Lee, it is charged, made a deliberate misstatement in replying in the negative.

LANGFORD AND KAUFMAN FIGHT DECLARED OFF

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—The fight between Sam Langford, Boston's famous "tar baby," and Al Kaufman, scheduled for to-night in the National Baseball Grounds under clerric light, was called off at noon to-day, owing to a disagreement between the fighters and managers.

Both the fighters were sore over the fact that the light, which was originally slated to take place last night, had been postponed on account of a rainstorm, and when they met this morning got into a wrangle over the affair, which finally necessitated calling the match off.

HASKELL IS ENDORSED.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 11.—Governor Haskell and his administration were endorsed to-day by the State Democratic convention. The substitution, through a Federal court decision, of the three-cent fare for the two-cents-a-mile fare provided for in the constitution was denounced.

GAYNOR ASSAILANT'S MIND WEAKENS AS HE THINKS OF HIS FATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—James J. Gallagher, assailant of Mayor Gaynor, is breaking down. Hour after hour he paces back and forth in his cell in the Hudson County Jail at Jersey City, suffering physically and mentally. Shortly after daybreak he complained of violent pains in his side, where he was kicked in the struggle to overpower him on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, and a keeper was detailed to rub him with liniment.

In the opinion of the jail attendants, as the enormity of his offence becomes apparent to Gallagher, his mind is weakening. Yesterday he said he regretted shooting the Mayor, but had no remorse. To-day there were indications that he was beset with remorse in its most poignant form. When not nervously walking to and fro in his cell, he sat on the edge of his cot with his face in his hands.

"In one way I do hope that Mr. Gaynor would die," he said. "If he lives they tell me I can be sentenced to twenty-four years. Such a sentence would mean life imprisonment, and the electric chair seem preferable to that now."

Asks to See Lawyers.

When told that the physicians of the Mayor had issued a bulletin declaring his condition highly improved Gallagher turned away with the suggestion of a sigh.

He asked that he be allowed to confer again with his lawyers, S. P. Judd and Nicholas Selvaggi, as soon as possible.

Newspapers were given to him by one of the keepers to-day. Gallagher read the accounts of Mr. Gaynor's condition with little show of emotion, but after he had gone through several denunciations of his act and demands that he suffer the full penalty of the law, he jumped up and walked spasmodically across his cell.

"They're clamoring for my blood," he cried to his cellmate.

Public sentiment in charging the special Grand Jury of Hudson County, N. J., at Jersey City, instructed the jurors not to consider the case of Gallagher. Were Gallagher indicted for assault he might plead guilty and escape severe punishment should the Mayor's condition grow worse, said the court.

The physicians attending the Mayor today said that for a week they would not know but that the bullet had grazed a major artery or vein. That would cause the outer tissues of the blood vessel to decay, and, when eventually sloughing off, open the vessel, causing a hemorrhage.

The course of the two fragments of the bullet was discussed by Robert Adamson, his secretary, who has probably more familiarity with the Mayor's condition than any other layman.

Bullet Not Dangerous.

"As I understand it," he said, "the bullet, although it travelled among various important vessels and skated over them so, so to speak, lodged in no dangerous place. The question is to why the surgeons did not operate seems to me very simple. They held, I believe, that as the bullet rested in no vital spot, an operation would be only a sort of irritation.

"The operation, according to what the doctors tell me, would have been simple. In the case of President McKinley, the bullet lodged in the abdomen, where the circulation is not so active, and there was a good deal of dead tissue. But this was an entirely different case.

Mayor Gaynor could have gotten up and walked to-day, but it would not have been advisable, because of the possibility that a blood vessel might be ruptured.

He got tired lying flat on his back and turned over on his side. He was even permitted to sit up for a few minutes, supported by pillows. He talked almost as distinctly as usual.

"We Won't Starve Him."

Dr. Acitts appeared exceedingly optimistic, after he examined Mr. Gaynor. Asked if the patient had eaten, he said: "You don't suppose we are going to starve him, do you?"

A demand is going up to-day for the passage of a law providing capital punishment as the penalty for an attempt on the life of any public official. This is the first general result of the shooting of Mayor Gaynor.

It developed to-day that Vice-President Sherman also had been threatened with assassination.

The police are working on the theory that other persons besides James J. Gallagher were involved in the attack on Mayor Gaynor, but believe that Gallagher's story that he alone is responsible will not be shaken. Police Commissioner Baker is going into the situation himself as the result of the suspension of Patrolman Joseph P. Hock, accused of declaring that Mayor Gaynor would "get his" and "the finer taking his abroad or on his return.

Patrolman Declares Innocence.

Formally accused of conduct unbecoming an officer and using disrespectful language against the chief executive of the city, Hock to-day rendered in his declaration of innocence, declaring that he would prove the declarations a frameup actuated by a desire for revenge.

Dr. Max Perlman, to whose sister, Miss Rebecca Perlman, Hock is alleged to have told of the Mayor's danger, declared Hock's charges of spite groundless when informed to-day of the officer's claim.

"I have witnesses and I will prove, if necessary, that the policeman predicted harm for the Mayor on Monday night, fourteen hours before Mr. Gaynor was shot," said Miss Perlman. "Miss Katie Eisenberg, who was with me when I remonstrated with him for being intoxicated, will corroborate my statement. It is true that he had objected to our being on the street near our home, or that he called us loiterers and told us to move on."

Mayor Calls for More Food.

At times yesterday the mayor developed a ravenous appetite which nearly worried his nurses. He was very impatient of the restraints placed upon him, particularly in the matter of food. In spite of the fact that two ounces of a good sized beef broiler are judged to his throat, the mayor wants food.

His appetite seems unimpaired, and when the doctors refused him solids he appealed to the nurses. When they shook their heads he sent for his wife and tried to wheedle her into giving him something substantial to eat.

The mayor's lack of curiosity about the man who shot him has surprised all those in attendance on him. He seems utterly indifferent to the matter, and when one of the few people who saw him yesterday brought the matter up, he did not even listen to them.

AVIATORS RACE CROSS COUNTRY IN FIERCE GALE

MEZIERES, France, Aug. 11.—Leblanc, the dare-devil French aviator, to-day maintained his lead in the 488 miles cross country race for $2,400. After a ninety-eight-mile dash through a storm at sixty miles an hour, he landed here ahead of the other five rivals. While passing through the storm he was all but upset a dozen times.

Aubrun, who has been racing neck and neck with Leblanc, came in second on the day's flight.

Because of the gale driving the storm, the racers were sent out of their course, and both the leader reporting covering more than the ninety-eight miles of the last line from Nancy, where they started the third day's race at dawn.

With the arrival here the aviators had completed more than half of the 480 miles of the grind course, the remaining three around northern France. From Paris to Troyes was eighty-two miles, from Troyes to Nancy approximately 102, making the total so far 282.

The aid officers who are following the race to-day declared that they are confident the monoplane has proven its supremacy as a machine for military scout work. Both Aubrun and Leblanc use monoplanes, Manec is using another. The Wright brothers, Curtiss, Lindpointer, the Belgian, Weymann, the American, and Legagneux by a biplane.

Weymann who is making a gallant effort to get the lead, has become a favorite because of his pluck and modesty. It was he who first picked up a guide when he lost his way in the beginning. More than a score of automobilists are following the contestants daily from the official trailers carrying medical supplies.

TAFT GOLFING, DESPITE RAIN

BEVERLY, Aug. 11.—President Taft pulled his old golf cap well down about his ears, turned up his coat collar and went over to the golf course of the Myopia Golf Club in the rain to-day. He had planned a round with John Hays Hammond, but Mr. Hammond had no enthusiasm at the prospect of driving over a rain-soaked course.

Captain Archibald Butt, the President's military aid, answered the call and took up the golf sticks in an attempt to beat the President.

To-morrow President Taft plays against Congressman Nicholas Longworth, who with his wife is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Allan. In the afternoon Postmaster-General Hitchcock will have another conference with the President relative to the postal savings bank plan.

Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh, whose Summer home is in Dublin, N. H., is expected to-morrow as one of the afternoon callers at the Summer White House.

GRAFT CHARGE BY SELECTMAN

The charge that Selectman Philip Meyer of Revere tried to extort 1,000 free tickets from the owner of a Revere Beach theatre is to-day made by Roscoe Walsworth, chairman of the Board of Selectmen.

Meyer insists that the accusation is untrue, and the charges are to be heard at a special meeting of the board next Wednesday night.

"If you don't give me a thousand passes your Sunday license will be held up," Walsworth insisted Meyer had said to the manager of the theatre.

This was the second extortion charge made at the meeting of the Revere Selectmen. Constable Fred Sackett figured in the accusations. He is collecting the unpaid poll taxes of 1908 and 1909 under appointment by Collector Elmer Femino. Sackett's removal as constable was asked. After a long talk Sackett said he would reduce his fee to one dollar and extend the time of paying 1908 taxes to August 29, and 1909 taxes to September 5.

TWO FATALLY HURT IN STREET CAR RIOTING

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 11.—Increased rioting, the fatal injury of two men and the serious injury of many more marked the street car strike situation last night. The rioters continued their attacks until after midnight. The traffic was fair during the day on the principal thoroughfares, but at night few rode and the attacks were more violent and many were injured.

Darkness had no sooner set in than a Parsons avenue car was attacked. The trolley was thrown off, assailants forced the conductor and motorman and two employes of the company, who were aboard, to flee, and then they started the car and allowed it to run wild for some distance, when it jumped the track and turned on its side. Stones and missiles of every description were thrown through car windows and people shot at the crew at all lines. Motormen and conductors were attacked and beaten.

At Spruce and Dennison avenue a crowd attacked a car, dragged the conductor and motorman into the street and beat them so badly that when found by the police they were unconscious and had to be taken to the hospital. The motorman, James Stephenson, from Buffalo, is fatally injured. The men started the car and it ran four squares and then jumped the track and was demolished.

Four patrolmen narrowly escaped death when they were hurled from a police ambulance while attacks on citizens that had been placed in front of it by miscreants.

SOCIETY'S "PASTIMES" DENOUNCED; MONKEY DINNERS MILD IN CONTRAST

Gambling Raid at Narragansett Pier and Exhibition of Fight Pictures Are Condemned.

NEWS ITEM.

NEWPORT, Aug. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener entertained seventy-five guests this evening with moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight.

Is high society retrograding and degenerating?

This question seems to have arisen in various points in the country among clergymen and educators, and even society leaders themselves.

The matter has been brought to a focus by the sensational raid on the Narragansett Club at Narragansett Pier, where a score or more of prominent society women were caught playing roulette and other forms of gambling. That the games were "fixed" and the "cards stacked" against the players does not seem to enter into the question. It is a question of morals.

The display of moving pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries championship fight by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Widener of Philadelphia to an immense party of friends, and the showing of a duplicate "set" of films by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Brooks at a dinner dance and skating carnival seems to have accentuated the situation.

It is admitted on all sides that these remarkable diversions of society, rivalling the famous "monkey parties" and like mild forms of amusement indulged in by the so-called smart set some years ago, indicate that some kind of transformation is in progress in society.

The smoking of cigarettes and the drinking of cocktails by society women have come in for much discussion. They have been roundly condemned by some. Others fearlessly uphold them. Such habits are matters of private business, with which the public has no right to interfere. Whether or not gambling and the viewing of prize fight pictures may be placed in the same category is a mooted question.

At all events, leaders of thought everywhere seem to have been aroused over the situation.

Buffalo Denunciation.

From Buffalo comes a strong denunciation of the women who participated in the Narragansett Pier gambling raid. It is from Mrs. Rob Keating, president of the Century Club and leader of the Buffalo smart set. Mrs. Keating, after reading the accounts of the raid in which so many prominent society women were involved, said:

"To my great disgust, I have read of this gambling raid. It only occurs to me that these ladies could usually stop. Some society women cannot expect greater clemency from the police than the women in whose level they drag themselves."

Clergymen in Newport, who depend very largely for support upon society people of wealth, were very wary in expressing opinions. They all knew of the exhibition of the Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures on the lawn of the Pinard cottage by Mr. and Mrs. Widener, with at least two hundred and fifty guests from all parts of the fashionable settlement, besides two hundred other people who stood outside the lawn to enjoy the sport, while Patrolman Daniel Regan stood guard to prevent any attempt to break over the fences into the grounds. Indeed, the showing of the prize-fight pictures was the talk of Newport yesterday. Many people denounced it as a degrading pastime for society folk, while others were very frank in confessing their disappointment at missing the show.

Two of Newport's clergymen gave their opinions after reading the accounts in the newspapers and hearing the details of the show from eye witnesses. The Rev. William Meenan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, where many of the cottagers attend service, was rather of the opinion that the pictures were harmless.

"I see no wrong in these pictures," he said, "so long as they are shown privately. There was no crime committed in their being shown. Besides, I hardly think it is the business of anyone save those who saw the show. Public exhibitions of these pictures, I think, are demoralizing, as they excite race prejudice, but there seems to be no harm in their being shown privately."

Negro Approves Fight Films.

The Rev. William B. Reed, pastor of the Mount Zion Baptist Church, one of the largest negro congregations in Newport, viewed the matter from the standpoint of his own race.

"I read the story of the showing of the pictures," he said, "and I think it is a good thing for three people of culture and refinement to see the pictures. If Jeffries had won they surely would have been shown about the country. I have my own ideas on the subject, and I feel that exhibitions of the pictures will do much to eradicate the race question. I hope the pictures will be further shown, for it will stop a lot of this race prejudice talk.

"While I am not favorable to prize fighting, I must say a refined and cultured gathering of society seeing the fight pictures is not harmful, but to fly to extremes."

In the gathering on Mr. and Mrs. Widener's lawn were Lady Greaves, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mrs. Cavendish, Jr. and Mrs. Cassin among those present. Many others came in after the dinner for the pictures. From reports, it would appear that everyone of note in the cottage settlement was present the night of the fight. Mrs. Widener witnessed the fight at Reno, and who acted as the announcer at the exhibition of the pictures. Biddle's picture was shown near the finish and elicited applause.

Acting Mayor William Shepley at Newport had already turned down an application to show the fight pictures in the local theatres. When asked about the legality of the exhibition by Mr. and Mrs. Widener, he replied:

"The exhibition was in a private home, and that lets me out."

A dramatic criticism of those who witnessed the display of pictures comes from Mrs. Christine Page, wife of Dr. Frank Wilfred Page, of Marlboro street, Boston, prominent in educational work and a most public-spirited woman. She declares emphatically that the society women who witness prize fight pictures and spend their time gambling in their own homes are no better than the women of the stage. She says:

Calls Smart Set Vulgar.

"There are many kinds of society people, but the so-called 'smart set' seems to be composed of more or less vulgar people who spend their days and nights in frivolous doings and high living.

"A society woman is not necessarily a cultured woman. She is more likely to be of the vulgarly rich type, who spend a large percentage of their time in gambling places, which, if a trifle removed to another section of the city, would be called 'dens,' nothing more or less. The women who care for that sort of thing are never refined or cultured.

"The prize fight pictures are brutalizing, and any woman who would look at them would probably enjoy a good bullfight, and I do not feel that there is much difference between the two.

"As a matter of fact the men fights are worse. It is natural for animals to become antagonistic toward each other when they get out in the open, but men are supposed to have advanced beyond enough by now to have passed beyond that brute stage.

"The height of ambition among most of these women seems to be to spend money lavishly on gowns, houses and entertainments, frequent vulgar places night after night and gamble at bridge and roulette tables.

Hints at Hypocrisy.

"My opinion of society women at New port and certain sections of New York is that they vie with each other in making a rapid pace. To be sure, they set themselves up as philanthropists and uplifters, but they would do more good if they would set a personal example of right living and right thinking.

"These society women are doing the same sort of things that the men of the 'smart set' are doing, only on a higher scale and in a more gilded atmosphere. Perhaps these society women are more refined and have more beautiful stage setting—but, stripped of all their surroundings and finery, their deeds and actions are practically the same."

Miss Frances Livingston Sullivan, who was recently declared by Rev. M. Nicolls of New York to be one of the few really fashionable women in Philadelphia, and who is a member of the National Smart Set, made some interesting comments on the situation. She said:

"It may be very ungracious of me to speak of this matter, for I may be criticising people whom I know. Gambling I consider a most demoralizing practise, especially as it sets such a bad example to young folk. It frequently becomes a passion with people and results in a loss of fortune and social position. Still, the roulette table is hardly worse than Wall Street, and many persons of the highest social standing indulge in the latter play without loss of prestige.

"In defence of the social element I must say that I am sure there are hundreds of men and women of most enviable position who would not enter a gambling establishment. There are also hundreds who would. In the lower walks of life the same conditions prevail. I am sure that John D. Rockefeller would not have gone to this establishment at Narragansett Pier.

Several well known society people declined to express an opinion for one reason or another. Among these was Mrs. Frederick Thurston Mason, an undisputed leader of Philadelphia society and directress of the Monday night dancing class, and a patroness of the time honored Assembly.

Philip S. P. Randolph, who was cashier in the raid, is a cousin of Mrs. Mason, and she is also related to many of the old families of the Quaker City.

Won't Criticise Friends.

Mr. Randolph is the father of Mrs. John Field, whose husband is the son of Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer. Mrs. Mason, when her opinion was sought, said:

"Mrs. Joseph Widener is a friend of mine and therefore I cannot criticise her actions. I do not go to Narragansett Pier, know nothing about the gambling, consequently, am not familiar with conditions. Whether such diversions as gambling and witnessing fight pictures are demoralizing or not, is not for me to say."

Miss Margaret Kuhl Kelly, who is well known in social and exclusive club circles, also declined to express an opinion.

"As I did not see the fight pictures," she said, "I cannot of course criticise them. But if they are vicious and demoralizing the question answers itself. Of the raid on the Narragansett Club and the gambling is all to have taken place I am totally at sea, as I know only what I have read concerning it, and am therefore not in a position to offer criticism."

L. Harrison Dulles, whose wife was in the list given out by Mrs. Hazard of women supposed to have been in the Narragansett Club at the time of the raid, wired the emphatic denial:

"Please publish emphatic denial that Mrs. Dulles and myself were at Narragansett Club night of raid. We were not there that or any other night. Reported interview untrue."

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION HAD A BIG BUSINESS DAY

New Committees Are Appointed at Opening of the Meeting in Faneuil Hall.

vention was called to order at 10:35 o'clock. President O'Callaghan immediately announced the appointment of the following committees, whose members were directed to retire and prepare reports as quickly as possible:

List of Committees.

On Resolutions—Mrs. Katherine Tillson, Boston; Miss Ella Carney, Dubuque, Ia.; William J. McNamee, Chicago; Miss Otilia O'Connor, John Carney and A. Washington Lagoe, of Philadelphia; Rev. Fr. Lambing, Pittsburg; John Hanley, Springfield, Ill.; and Miss Katherine Kelley of St. Paul, Minn.

On Constitution—Thomas J. O'Brien, Connecticut; Charles D. O'Donnell, Illinois; Miss Sallie Hickson, Pennsylvania; Rev. J. P. Mealey, Philadelphia; Edward J. McCarthy, Providence; James Pender, Springfield, O.; Timothy Shea, Ohio, and Maurice Dineen, Boston.

Auditing Committee—Rev. J. Shanley, LL. D., of Hartford; Miss Mary Buchanan, Dubuque; John Cuneen, Illinois; Miss Dolarosa Carr, Philadelphia; Thomas Bailey and Thomas Quinn, Providence; Thomas Kennedy, Connecticut; Thomas McGee, Ohio.

The most important utterance of the convention session this morning was contained in a paper read by the Rev. Jr. Shanley of Hartford, who spoke on "The Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America and Legislation." In the course of his address Father Shanley said:

"Although the Catholic Total Abstinence Union does not depend upon legislenactments, but relies chiefly on moral influence, yet we realize more and more that we should use our prerogative of citizenship to remove the proximate occasion of the drink evil by enacting laws which will abolish or restrict the traffic in liquor."

The opening prayer of the convention this morning was offered by the Most Rev. J. Regis Canevin, D. D., bishop of Pittsburg, Pa., a leading advocate of the principles of the C. T. A. U.

The Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, president of the national body, presided at the convention. The first order of business was the continuation of the reports of the presidents of subordinate unions, which was left unfinished when yesterday's session closed.

One of the reports which was quite interesting was that submitted by the Rev. J. V. Moylan of Nanticoke, Pa., national treasurer, who is president of the Scranton Catholic Total Abstinence Union. His report follows:

Treasurer's Report.

Persevering effort on the part of the officers and members of this Union, and the continued encouragement given by our Right Reverend Bishop and the clergy of the diocese have resulted in substantial gains in numbers and in influence, as well as in the advancement of a strong total abstinence sentiment.

At the twenty-eighth annual convention, held in Carbondale in May, it was reported that there were on the roll five ladies' societies, twenty cadet organizations and forty-nine male adult societies, with a membership of 5,000 vigorous, energetic disciples of Father Mathew.

We have a good general plan of thorough organization. The diocese is divided into four districts, with Carbondale the principal city of the first; Scranton in the second, Wilkesbarre in the third and Hazleton in the fourth district.

Besides the regular meetings of individual societies, each district holds a convention every three months to hear reports of the work being done; to bring out new ideas, and to discuss thoroughly the interests of the cause.

These conventions are interesting, and while they result in much good for the cause of sobriety, they also serve to strengthen the bond of unity.

Personal Appeal Plan.

The idea of Father James M. Reardon in regard to older organizations has met with favor, and many of our boys are now enrolled as members of the Total Abstinence Sodality of the Blessed Sacrament.

An energetic campaign for more adult members was recently inaugurated. Societies divided their respective parishes into small districts and appointed committees of two members to go with book and pencil, visit every home and give a personal invitation to all—especially the young men—to come to a meeting and become members. In some cases this direct personal appeal has been rewarded with gratifying success.

The ladies are working hard, and while the numerical strength of their ranks is not what we have every reason to expect that it will soon be, their influence for the cause is very great.

October 10 will be celebrated this year with a grand parade in the city of Pittston. It is expected that the demonstration on that occasion will be an honor to the memory of the Great Apostle of Total Abstinence, the Rev. Theobald Mathew, and a powerful incentive to many to join our ranks.

BIG PRIZE DRILL FEATURE TONIGHT IN MECHANICS HALL

This evening there will be a competitive drill in Mechanics' Building, Huntington avenue, to which the delegates are invited. The Wilkesbarre C. T. A. U. Regiment will be among the competitors for a handsome prize for the best drilled company. Other bodies will be the Paulist Cadets of New York, St. Jerome's Cadets of Holyoke, and several other military companies.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Thomas W. Batt, chairman; Timothy Callaway, Annie Newman, Cambridge; Philip Cuny, John Abong, Emery Hanlon, Medford; Timothy McSweeney, William Murphy, Margaret M. Riley, Annie S. Aylward, Malden; Thomas J. Shortle, Quincy; Ernest J. McDonald, Woburn; George F. Wentworth, Frank Montague, Boston; Annie M. Cunniff, Thomas P. O'Keefe, Annie C. Graves, Dorchester; Catherine Dineen, T. J. Reardon, Edward F. Mettimiburg, Chelsea; Mary Sullivan, Mrs. Tierney, Brookline; Daniel J. Lucey, Sydney J. Keefe, George Dutton, Revere; Annie Lydon, Joseph Roach, Norwood; Ruth Cline, Brockton; John J. Tansey, Lynn, and Catherine Sweeney, Boston.

Competitive Military Drill and Military Ball at Mechanics Hall To-night.

BACK BAY FIRE DESTROYS 40 AUTOMOBILES

Forty automobiles were destroyed and the Back Bay district was given a scare by a three-alarm fire in the new Maxwell-Briscoe Boston Automobile Exchange, at Nos. 92-100 Massachusetts avenue. A number of small explosions of gasoline in the tanks of the burning automobiles made the firemen wary and served to spread the flames.

The damage to the building and its contents is estimated by the company at a quarter of a million dollars. The building, a five-story structure, abutting on both Massachusetts avenue and Newbury street, was almost new. The roof was burning, and the fourth and fifth floors were gutted.

The firemen were already worn out almost to exhaustion by their long battle with the South End lumber yard fire, and this made their work doubly hard.

Two firemen were injured fighting the blaze. The building is owned by the Maxwell-Briscoe Boston Company.

The lives of several of the firemen were endangered by exploding gasoline tanks in several of the automobiles, and also by the bursting of prestolite tanks stored on the upper floors.

Chauffeurs Brave Dangers.

Several chauffeurs braved dangers to save the automobiles of their employers, and fifty of the two hundred machines in the building when the fire was discovered were removed to places of safety, one hundred machines in the cellar escaping the flames.

The fire started in the southeast corner of the top floor of the building used by the Maxwell company as a repair shop. Thomas Nolan, night watchman for the Boston Cab Company, discovered the blaze and sounded an alarm. By the time the firemen arrived the flames had gained considerable headway, and eating through to the front of the building, reached several valuable automobiles.

Explosions of gasoline tanks followed in rapid succession, spreading the fire throughout the entire upper portion of the building. Long tongues of flame burst through the roof and shot fifty feet into the air. A second alarm was sounded, followed a few minutes later by a third.

Captain Fitzgerald M. O'Lalor of Engine 22, on Warren avenue, was overcome by smoke on the stairs leading to the fifth floor and was taken to the City Hospital in an automobile. Ladderman Webber, of Ladder 12, had his right foot badly cut by glass. His injuries were treated by a doctor in a nearby drug store.

Apartments Threatened.

The flames bore down on two fashionable six story brick apartment houses on Commonwealth avenue and for a time these two buildings were filled with smoke and in danger from the flames. Several private houses along Commonwealth avenue were abandoned, the occupants being driven from their homes by the suffocating smoke. Firemen fought the spreading flames from the fire escapes of Commonwealth apartments and in several instances hammered their way through screened windows with borrowed flatirons to reach the heart of the blaze in the garage.

After a battle of more than three hours the firemen, under the direction of Deputy Chief Grady and Acting Fire Commissioner Francis Kelly, succeeded in confining the fire to the upper floors. A report that a member of the 35's crowd had been burned to death caused much concern and led to a search of the building after the fire had been extinguished. The missing fireman had been fighting a stubborn little whirl of fire in rear of the building and later appeared unhurt.

KING LEOPOLD'S WIDOW SOON TO WED AGAIN

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Baroness Vaughan, the morganatic wife of the late King Leopold, of Belgium, has announced her approaching marriage with Emmanuel Durieux, a retired merchant, living at Neuilly-Sur-Seine. It is stated that Durieux has been director of the Baroness Vaughan's financial affairs. Since her dramatic flight from Belgium on the death of King Leopold, which closed her regal career, the baroness, endowed with an immense fortune bestowed upon her by the King, has been living comparously, although in the greatest privacy, in the chateau Balincourt at Arreuville. The townspeople have been amazed by the publication of the banns of marriage Baroness Vaughan's name being given as Blanche Zelis Joseph Dedereis.

The date of the marriage is not known, and the staff of domestic guarding the high walled chateau declare that their mistress is at the seashore. Baroness Vaughan is twenty-seven years of age, while Durieux is fifty.

The penniless sisters of the baroness, who are living in Paris, are stupefied at the news, and declare the bridegroom is ashamed that she would marry so soon after the death of the King. Although she is said to be possessed of many millions, she has turned a deaf ear to all their appeals, and now they consider that their last hope has vanished.

TELEGRAPH FRANKS END NEXT THURSDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The telegraph franking privilege is soon to be withdrawn from many who for years have enjoyed it. The amendment to the interstate commerce act, eliminating the frank, except for the exclusive use of telegraph company officials and their families, was passed by the last session of Congress, to take effect on Aug. 18. The Western Union and Postal sent out printed notices to-day to all their frank holders, telling them to send in their unconsumed supply for cancellation.

LYNN, Aug. 11.—A Stanley Woodworth, a member of the Bon Ami House Association of Nahant and for many years clerk of the Bass Point House, has entered suit against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Addie Fuller, for $25,000, alienation of the affections of his wife, Marguerite. The latter recently instituted a suit for divorce. Mrs. Fuller's husband is the manager of the Lynn Woodworth is clerk. Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth were married twelve years ago.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY, FAMED POET, WHO IS STRICKEN

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

POET RILEY IS STRICKEN

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 11.—James Whitcomb Riley, Indiana's famous poet, is seriously ill at his home in this city as the result of a stroke of paralysis. His recovery is doubtful.

James Whitcomb Riley, who is fifty-seven years old, began contributing poems to Indiana newspapers in 1873. So much of his verse has in the Hoosier dialect that he rapidly became known as "the Hoosier poet." This name stuck to him.

Among his published works are "The Old Swimmin' Hole and 'Leven More Poems," "The Boss Girl and Other Sketches," "Old-Fashioned Roses," "Poems Here at Home," "Rubbaiyat of Doc Sifers," "The Book of Joyous Children," "A Defective Santa Claus," "While the Heart Beats Young" and "Raggedy Man."

AGED WOMAN AND MAN DYING OF STARVATION

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 10.—Antonio Baroun, fifty-two, is dying to-day in the Addison Gilbert hospital of starvation, while his boarding mistress, Mrs. Annie Casabranda, sixty-five, is at her home in a very low condition from the same cause.

Reports that groans had been heard coming from a house at Bayview, a suburb, led to an investigation. In one of the upper rooms, lying fully dressed upon a bed, was Baroun, emaciated almost to a skeleton. In a room on the lower floor Mrs. Casabranda was found in an almost equally serious state from starvation.

Policeman Joseph Hadley, who made the grewsome discovery, found in the upper room Baroun, who had boarded at the house for twenty weeks. The room was reeking with filth, and one of the man's eyes was missing. The authorities are unable to determine whether the eye was eaten away by rats or if it was lost from some other cause.

The woman found in the room on the lower floor was not so badly off as Baroun, but was very weak.

INSPECTOR BYRNES LEFT OVER MILLION

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The provisions of the will of Thomas Byrnes, the famous inspector of the old police force of New York city, and later superintendent, have been made public. After the bequest of his desire to be made as soon as possible after his death, Mrs. Byrnes is the residue of his estate to his widow, Ophelia A. Byrnes.

By a codicil written March 19, 1910, when the testator knew that he could not live, he revoked the appointment of Justice McCall and Mr. Byrnes as executors and made his widow sole executrix with her bond. The estate is said to be worth over $1,000,000.

BUFFALO ELEVATOR BURNS.

LOCKED IN THE GARAGE

Is your car locked in the garage—grazing on the tender asphalt and curbstones, or out "joy riding?"

It ought to be earning money. Many respectable people are often called upon to show their out-of-town guests Boston's beautiful parkways and suburbs. Perhaps they have no car—perhaps they have an electric, but that will accommodate only a few persons.

Right here's where you can do them a great favor and make good money for yourself. Insert a Want Ad offering to rent your car for such occasions by appointment only. Instead of being idle a great part of the time your car will bring you a revenue that will be surprising. It's a good way for your boy to earn vacation money.

for the kidneys and liver should be taken immediately.

Mrs. William Wilson had given up all hope of recovery when she was persuaded to use Warner's. It cured her, and this is the grateful letter she wrote:

"Warner's Safe Cure has done me so much good that I feel it my duty to tell you; but it seems almost foolish to try to express in words the good that your wonderful remedies have accomplished.

"When I first began taking your medicine I had kidney and liver trouble, also rheumatism so bad that I almost screamed when I got up in the morning; my joints and muscles were stiff and sore, and I was so nervous. It seemed that the dread disease was approaching a fatal end. Now all is changed. I am enjoying happiness where once I labored under sorrow. You have saved me a great many pains, and my nerves are almost steady.

"I can truthfully say that it has been a wonderful medicine for me, I have paid out a great deal of money for other remedies, but I had bought your remedies first and paid you that last, and now I would be money ahead. Nothing but Warner's for me now." Mrs. William Wilson, 2810 N. 6½ St., Terre Haute, Ind.

Warner's Safe Cure is put up in 50c. and $1.00 sizes and sold by druggists everywhere.

Warner's Safe Pills for constipation and biliousness, purely vegetable, absolutely free from injurious substances, are a perfect laxative. They do not gripe or leave any bad after effects. 25 cents a package.

To convince every sufferer from disease of the kidneys and liver that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will absolutely cure, a sample bottle and also a sample box of Warner's Safe Pills will be sent FREE OF CHARGE, postpaid, to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE CO., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in the Boston American.

ASK BRITAIN TO SAVE O'REILLY BIRTHPLACE

The twentieth anniversary of the death of John Boyle O'Reilly was fittingly observed by the members of the John Boyle O'Reilly Club at the Exchange Club, the gathering being notable not only for the large number of prominent men present, but for the rare merit of the original poems in memory of the poet-patriot, which were rend.

Upon the suggestion of Mayor Fitzgerald, a movement was begun by which it is hoped to gain the aid of various organizations in persuading the British government to preserve Down Castle, the birthplace of the famous poet.

In calling the meeting to order A. Shuman, president of the club, touched upon the human characteristics of John Boyle O'Reilly and quoted from his famous poem, "A Nation's Test." The meeting was in large part made possible by the efforts of Mr. Shuman, who was congratulated by a number of the speakers upon the success of the observance.

Mr. Shuman's Address.

In his opening address, President Shuman said:

"Twenty years ago to-day the whole country was shocked by the news of the death of John Boyle O'Reilly. From North and South, East and West, a cry of sorrow and mourning went up that the voice of the great poet was suddenly stilled, and that no more from his fertile brain and facile pen would emanate those winged messengers that ever brought comfort and inspiration to the heart that gave them resting place. Even though forty years have passed since our first meeting, his beautiful resonant voice rings down through the dim vista of the past as true and clear as when the world was young to him and me, and the affectionate clasp of his hand seems as warm and sincere now as then. In his own words:

Great men grow greater by the lapse of time;
We know them best when we have seen the latest.
And they, amongst those whose names shine winged
Who wrought for human liberty, are greatest.

"How true! Spoken by one whose eyes, to use his own exquisite fancy, God had touched with sorrow and given to him the clearness of sight that enabled him to look beyond the veil which separates us from the future, and happily to foresee the honor and love that would be paid to the memory of 'the dreamer who lives forever.'

Ex-Governor Guild paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the poet and told with feeling of the ward-heeled encouragement which O'Reilly had given him when Guild was at Harvard.

William Lesky read an original poem by Miss Katherine E. Conway, entitled, "Through Twenty Years of Death." Ex-Mayor Quincy said:

"John Boyle O'Reilly will remain in the memory of the people of Boston as the greatest apostle of freedom we have ever known. He brought to this commonplace point of view that brought from us those to whom we were longer in our shores and instilled into them a temperament, sentiment and an inspiration that will live with them for all time."

Following the address of ex-Mayor Quincy, Joseph Smith of Lowell was introduced and read an original poem dedicated to the occasion. Judge Robert Grant told of his acquaintance with O'Reilly, who in fitting words eulogized the memory of the author of "The Landing of the Pilgrims."

Tells of Rescue.

Captain Henry C. Hathaway told of his part in the rescue and flight of O'Reilly from prison in Australia. Among the other speakers were Edward Clement, Thomas R. Fitzpatrick, Charles Gerhan, ex-Mayor Herr and Denis A. McCarthy.

Those present were Ex-Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Ex-Mayor Josiah Quincy, Ex-Mayor Edwin U. Curley, Judge Robert Grant, General Charles H. Taylor, Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, Stephen O'Meara, Captain Henry C. Hathaway, James S. Murphy, Judge John H. Cahill, Edward H. Dewey, Judge Daniel F. Murphy, George F. Babbitt, P. M. Keating, John Kimball, Joseph Smith, H. Stafford Potter, William H. Leahy, George G. Crocker, Alexander Shepard, J. Jay Gould, Dr. F. A. Harris, J. T. Wheelwright, James W. Dunphy, T. B. Lacher, Dr. John F. Nugent, Dr. F. J. Keany, Judge E. C. Dunphy, James F. Cotter, Dr. J. Rathskoey, Judge M. J. Murphy, Charles E. Gorman, Charles J. Phelan, Denis McCarthy, Humphrey O'Sullivan, J. D. McLaughlin, Colonel T. W. Higginson, Judge Charles A. DeCourcy, Benjamin Kimball, Edward P. McSweeney, M. J. Dwyer, Harry J. McGleenen, William F. Fitzgerald and A. Shuman.

VAHEY IN FIGHT TO FINISH, HE TELLS LEADERS

James H. Vahey's name will go before the Democratic State convention as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. Mr. Vahey threw down the gauntlet to the Democrats of the State when he, following Congressman Foss, at the meeting of the Worcester County Democrats, and made the far-fetched declaration that he was in the fight to stay and would be a candidate up to the very last moment.

The Democratic situation in the State is not much clearer than it was last week, although it is openly asserted that in the event that Foss takes the same stand as that of Mr. Vahey, the State convention in September will be one of the most exciting that the Democrats of the State have ever witnessed.

Mr. Vahey said: "I will not let any man or faction decide whether or not I am to be the nominee for Governor.

The Democratic convention is the place to settle this question. There is no other place where it can be done. I want the Democratic nomination because I want to be Governor of Massachusetts."

Aside from the announcement by John H. Vahey that he would not accept the Democratic nomination for Congressman from the Third District, the outspoken statement by Mr. Vahey created the greatest comment resulting from the big convention.

Almost every Democrat of distinction in central Massachusetts, in personal conversation held in Edgeworth and the Worcester hotels, among the speakers was commended highly in the event of Representative Thomas H. Tilley, Congressman O'Connell, Frederick W. Mansfield, Joseph O'Gara and Mayor Fitzgerald, Mr. Mansfield, however, was open in his support of Mr. Vahey.

ALDRICH WILL REPLY TO BRISTOW CHARGES

It is stated on the most trustworthy authority that President Taft has sent forceful word to Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, that, even if he does refute from public life in the face of grave charges made against him by Senator Bristow of Kansas, he must make public answer to those charges for the sake of the Republican party, it not in self-defence. Senator Aldrich, it can be said, has agreed to make such a reply. This answer is in process of preparation, and will be made public shortly.

In making this public statement, Senator Aldrich, who is the father-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and who always has been looked upon as the representative of the Standard Oil Company in the United States Senate, will break a silence of thirty years. Never before has the Standard Oil Senator deigned to make any like criticism. It is believed he would not have consented to do so to-day in this instance had it not been for the importunament to a command, made by President Taft. The President feels it is his honor of his party above that of any individual member of it.

To Defend Cotton Schedule.

Aldrich, within a short time, will deliver an address on the Payne-Aldrich law in which he will defend the cotton schedule, which has been made the subject of so much attack.

The Senator is unshaken in his determination not to be a candidate for office again. With regard to this he tells his friends that he has given tired of being the target of country-wide criticism, not does he care to leg superfluous on the stage, preferring to retire in the fulness of his power, before old age overtakes him. In this respect he stands away from the new progressive movement sweeping the country.

Senator Aldrich's determination to reply to Senator Bristow charges is inspired, it is said, by a desire to help the Republican party to a forthcoming Congressional campaign, and results from an all-day conference at Warwick, his country home, Monday, at which Senator Murray Crane and President Taft's secretary, Charles D. Norton, among others, were present.

The Rubber Case.

It is learned from the AMERICAN'S informant that the situation was gone over thoroughly and that during the consultation that President Taft has sent forceful word to Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, that, even if he does refute from public life in the face of grave charges made against him by Senator Bristow of Kansas, he must make public answer to those charges for the sake of the Republican party, it not in self-defence. CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Two reverses for the Red Sox at the hands of their rivals, the White Sox, did not discourage them in the least in making a strong chase after the third conflict on the slate this afternoon.

The home team was never playing better ball than right now, and any team to beat them must show the championship goods, else count themselves out of the running.

The loss yesterday was likely to happen to any club and proved to the local fans that the Red Sox are no quitters, no matter how long the contest goes.

The White Sox, feeling the sting of those knockdowns suffered while the team visited the Hub, are surely out for revenge on this occasion and playing the best ball they know how for Hugh Duffey, who is driving the team as never before in order to get it back in the good graces of the supporters.

As the Red Sox have lost the last three games in a row they were due for a victory this afternoon or things would look serious for a decent showing on the road, so all signs pointed to one of the hottest duels yet on the card in spite of that twelve round clash yesterday.

The one big question and topic for discussion was whether big Ed Walsh would get his trimmings repeated which the Red Sox gave him in their own town.

Nobody ever questioned the stuff that the giant twirler is made of, and he was only too willing to face the enemy in all games left in the series if his leader would let him.

Manager Donovan rather liked the cut of Charley Smith to go on the slab this afternoon. He had figured on Joe Wood, but his foot is still out of commission, and he could not show the best in him if he worked.

Help! Help!! Help!!!

NO, ATHLETICS' TWIRLERS WILL NOT EXPLODE

It seems likely that croakers will go on predicting that Connie Mack's pitching staff will crack, but before it does the Athletics promise to be so far ahead that their chances of winning the flag won't be impaired much, and their pitchers will have records that will stand among the best. Sunday's was Coombs' eighteenth victory of the season, two more than Chief Bender, the leading pitcher of the league, and his teammate, has amassed.

Despite the fact that he is now training the leading American League teams, it must have been with a good deal of pride and satisfaction in his own work that Doc Lawler watched Jack Coombs blank Jack O'Connor's team a few days ago, for Lawler is the man who saved Coombs' arm. Jack seemed to have lost the use of his arm completely a few seasons ago. Everyone gave him up, and he was preparing to take up a business career when Lawler examined the injured member.

"I cured Jack Coombs' arm in a surprisingly short time by the use of ice water," Lawler explained when he was here recently.

"Jack is one of the most intelligent ball players in the business, and this talk that he's overdoing it makes me sick. He's strong, knows how to get the most out of his arm with the least effort, and can pitch just as much as he feels like without any danger."

Coombs hadn't pitched that great sixteen-inning tie against Walsh when Lawler made the foregoing comment, but he had been pitching nearly every other day for two weeks. Probably Lawler hasn't changed his opinion. Certain it is that Coombs' work is far and away the best in the American League to-day, and his value to the Athletics is becoming more apparent every day.

PATROLS ASSIGNED FOR BIG REGATTAS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Seven revenue cutters will patrol the courses at regattas during the next week. The details are:

Huntington Bay regatta, Long Island, August 15-17, cutters Mohawk and Manhattan.

The Spanish-American yacht races, off Marblehead, Mass., beginning August 7, cutters Androscoggin, Gresham and Acushnet.

Potomac River regatta, August 12-13, cutters Apache and Onondaga.

UMPIRE REINSTATED; PLAYER FINED $50

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—President Chivington of the American Association has announced a fine of $50 against Hunter of the Kansas City club and suspended him for three days for striking Umpire Bush during a game at Kansas City, August 5. Bush is reinstated and assigned to duty at Milwaukee.

HOBOKEN IRON MAN WHIPS JOHNNY WALTZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Charles Seiger, the Hoboken Iron Man, defeated Johnny Waltz in their ten-round bout at Brown's gym. In the fifth round Sieger dropped Waltz to his knees with a short right to the jaw. In the ninth Waltz slipped to the floor twice and Seiger helped him to arise. Seiger was too strong for his adversary and won all the way.

DRIVERS SUSPECTED; BETS DECLARED OFF

CORRY, Aug. 10.—The Lake Erie trotting races brought out a big crowd to-day. In the 2:28 pace all money was declared forfeited, the judges suspecting the drivers of Patsy Dillon and Reed Wilkes of a conspiracy. Both drivers protested, but the judges' decision stood. Reed Wilkes won in straight heats, with Dan Wilkes second.

Red Sox News and Comment

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Lange hit Tris Speaker on the arm with a fast one in the sixth inning, and the outfielder rubbed his arm all the way to first. There is scarcely a day when Speaker is not slightly injured. The day before he was spiked. Umpire Colliflower made a hit with the fans. He is a southpaw umpire and any time that he informs a ball player that he is out he waves him away with his left hand. In fact he uses his southpaw all the time in waving his decisions. Lange snapped a throw to Zeider in the eleventh and from the stand it seemed a cinch that Lewis was caught napping off second. Umpire Colliflower ruled otherwise, however, and of course there was nothing to do.

Manager Patsy Donovan announced that he could trade Harry Lord to just as much advantage one week from now as he could at the present time and was in no hurry. He wants the right man before he separates Lord from the Boston club.

Nine and a half games is a big lead, but it isn't one that cannot be overcome. There was a chance that the plans of the manager would go astray to-day. He planned to send Joe Wood against the White Sox. Wood has always been mighty effective. The Sox do not like speed very well and anybody who has seen Wood work knows that is his long suit. So Wood looked the best bet, until he came up with a sore toe. Doesn't seem that a sore toe should enter in a pennant race, does it? Well, Joe's threatens to. He received the same in Cleveland. One of his pals closed the door and caught Wood's toe. It pained him a bit at the start. Then the pain disappeared and Joe supposed that he was all right. Instead of getting better it became worse, and to-day was all discolored and so painful that when Joe walked he limped. There was an excellent chance that the sore toe would keep him off the slab. In which event it would probably be Karger.

Tris Speaker has an idea that Chicago is his hoodoo. In the first game he was spiked as he slid back to first base. In the second game Lang shot a fast one which Speaker could not dodge. He turned far enough to catch it on his throwing arm. He rubbed the member all the way to first, and when he retired to center field he was still rubbing it. He seemed unable to keep his hand off the injured arm, and even while he was in the field he was rubbing. When he returned to the bench his companions asked him what the trouble was and he informed them that the pitcher had paralyzed his arm and he certainly would have been in a fix if somebody had slammed a hit into his territory and he had been compelled to make anything like a throw. He would have failed, that's all. The numbness passed away before the game was over.

Manager Donovan has done nothing in the Lord matter. At any rate he said to-day that he has no trade in sight and was not in a hurry to make one. "Lord is such a good man that I expect to get a crackerjack pitcher for him," said the manager. "For that reason I am acting slowly. There are several men in mind. If I can get one of them, all good and well. But I want a dandy. No ordinary ball player for Lord."

The Speed Boys were disturbed about to-day's game. Edward Walsh, easily the star of the White Sox staff, was billed to do the pitching and the big spitter is always a hard man to beat.

John I. Taylor believes in providing the best for his men. Instead of hauling them to the ball park in a stuffy omnibus he provides nice carryalls. The Senators went him one better, however, for they made the trip to and from the ball park in automobiles.

This game of baseball certainly is a corker. The White Sox have been pulling for the Speed Boys ever since it became apparent that Chicago was out of the race. Then the White Sox turn about and give the Red Sox a beating at the most inopportune time.

Larchen, a youngster picked up at Detroit, played third base for the Red Sox in the practice. Larchen was not a member of the Tiger band but played semi-prof. in the city represented by Hughey Jennings. Comiskey handed out a hot one when told that the Red Sox would give him Harry Lord for Ed. Walsh. "I might give them my grandstand for a ball player," said the old Roman, "but I wouldn't give them Walsh." It's a nice new grandstand, too.

SPANISH YACHTS HERE FOR RACES

ill-feeling may remain in the relations between the two nations.

During the week, the preliminaries are being run off at Marblehead, to pick the American team for the international event. When the elimination trials opened Monday, thirteen boats started, six in the first and seven in the second division. Since that time, the sonder boats have been racing every day, and the prospect is for an exceptionally fast American trio, to meet the visitors next week.

Two racers have been run off each day. To date the Harpoon has a clean slate, having won six races in three days. This is a world's record for sonder boats. The boat was built this year, and has a record of no defeats save once, at Hull, on a technical foul. The Harpoon is certain to be one of the boats in the international races, and Skipper Charles Francis Adams, 2d, nephew of President John Adams, has good reason to be proud of the yacht.

Eliminations To-morrow.

The Beaver, C. H. W. Foster, stands second, with two firsts to its credit, and is a possible second. Cima, Guy Lowell and the Lady, R. deB. Boardman, are now tied for third.

To-morrow the eliminations in the two divisions will have been made, and the six boats to enter the finals will be hotly contesting to get a place in the list of three, to face the Spanish boats next week.

One interesting fact that has developed in the prelims is that the boats built this year have outclassed last year's favorites. The older boats have been beaten all along the line. Last year the Joyette, Childs & Swan; the Ellen, C. P. Curtis, and the Wolf, Miss May Loring, represented America against Germany. The Joyette kept the Taft cup in America.

The Harpoon seems capable of usurping the place of honor formerly held by the Joyette. The Harpoon is in its own class, as was demonstrated in the heavy weather sailing, when the yacht made good in the teeth of the prediction that Skipper Adams would not make half so good a showing as he had made in the light weather work. Among the crew of the Joyette this year is Miss Laura Fisher, who attended to the jib sheets. It is expected she will have a boat of her own in the sonder class next year.

The international races will be sailed over two courses, according to the agreement. The first will be windward and leeward. The second will be a triangular course, one leg of which must be to windward. Each leg will be six miles.

Eastern Yacht Club members will receive and entertain the crews of the three Spanish boats. However, the visitors expect to get down to hard work tomorrow, learning the lay of the land and sea around Marblehead, and getting generally ready for next week's races.

HARPOON REFUSES TO ENTER TO-DAY'S TRIALS OF SONDERS

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 11.—It was oilskin weather for the yachtsmen when preparations were made to continue the third day's racing in the elimination trials to select an American team to meet the Spanish sonders in the races for the President Taft and Governor Draper Cups to be contested next week.

The skippers of the Harpoon, Lady and Veaver announced that they would not race and would accept the demerits for doing so rather than take chances of wetting sails and a chance of damage.

Just at 11 o'clock the committee signalled that the racing would be in Salem Bay, starting from the Marblehead lighthouse and going three miles to windward towards a mark off Beverly and a run home.

Despite the weather Miss May Loring, the Boston society girl, clad in oilskins went on board the Wolf to act as skipper.

The first division was sent away at 11:10 with the Ellen in the lead at the starting signal. The Sally X and the Bonivee followed the Ellen over the mark on the starboard tack while the Eel followed the others over the line and went to the port tack. After ten minutes of racing the Ellen crossed the bows of the other boats and was gaining fast towards the first mark.

Joyette Takes the Lead.

The second division went away at 11:15 with the Joyette over the line in the lead to starboard, closely folowed by all the others except the Demon, which followed the course of the Eel in the first division and went to port spliting tacks with the other boats in the division. The Joyette stood up better in the weather than any of the boats in her division and five minutes after crossing the line tacked and passed the bows of all in the division and had a good lead to the mark.

HARRY LORD SAYS HE HAS NO GROUCH

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 11.—Harry Lord, ex-Red Sox captain, is taking life easy at his South Portland Heights home, waiting the decision of the Boston management, as he puts it.

Lord refuses to discuss the incidents which led up to the decision of the Boston management to put him on the market, saying:

"It has seemed to me from the first, that the so-called controversy between the Boston management and myself has caused comment out of all proportion to its importance. The trade or sale of a ball player is but one of the many things incidental to the career of every man in the business.

"My relations with the Boston management have always been satisfactory to me, up to and including the recent incident. If the management sees fit to sell or trade my services, I have no criticism to offer. I shall do as I always have done, play to win, with whatever team I may be.

"I have no grouches either with the management, or the Boston players and I am merely waiting the decision of the management."

Those frisky Cubs who start a series with the Doves to-day got in early, as the rain shut them out of a chance to win against the Phillies yesterday, and they are ready to repeat the record of the Pirates by taking four straight.

With the coming champions at the South End field to-day it's another big baseball attraction, and the Cubs are a bit more popular with the local fans than the team that just left.

The followers of real diamond sport like to see "Husk" Chance and his warriors battle here, for they work for every point, and that's why they are leading the league just now with good prospects of turning out another championship, which will make the fourth in five years running, about the best mark that has been reached in recent years by any major league team.

The Cubs did not have much chance to add to their lead over in the Phillies' camp, as rain knocked them out two days, and they could only split even in a double-header, so they are in a fighting mood just now, and if weather conditions allow will certainly burn things up at the old field.

"Sure we will win that championship," said Manager Captain Chance to-day when asked if that team was going to land the coveted trophy.

"The team had some setbacks at the breakway of the season, but everything is going fine now and nothing can stop us from nailing the flag this year. We are tied up a bit by some players being injured and on the sick list, but on the whole we can't complain, as that's baseball luck."

The same line-up of the visitors as seen here on their last trip will be in order, as Chance does not care to make any more changes in his batting order than is necessary.

The Doves, still willing to tackle any kind of game, will go after the Cubs and try to trip them up in their scramble for the top prize. Sellers, the new outfielder, will probably be in the game to-day for the first time, and he may prove to be just the factor needed to get the team going right.

JOHNSON MAY HAVE FIGHT IN AUSTRALIA

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Australia, the place where Jack Johnson first sprang into the championship limelight, will probably be the scene of the next encounter with any one who seeks heavyweight honors. The champion announced to-day that in all probability he would head for the Antipodes next Summer, following his theatrical engagements in Europe.

Jack said that there would be nothing doing in this country for some time, whereas he has a number of flattering offers from Hugh McIntosh, the promoter, and might close a deal when he gets to London.

McIntosh is on his way to the British metropolis at present, and will remain there until Johnson arrives. Then he will unfold his plans for a fight in England or Australia. Just who his opponent may be is the last thing the title holder can think of, but he reiterates that if Langford wants a match all he need do is put up sufficient money.

DISPUTES CLAIM OF NEW BEDFORD CLUB

HAVERHILL, Aug. 11.—W. R. Rich, president of the Haverhill New England Club, denies the reported purchase of Pitcher McTighe by the New Bedford club from Birmington of the Southern League, and claims that he is the property of the Haverhill club.

New Bedford reports were that Manager Dowd had bought the pitcher for $1,200 and that he would immediately report to that club. The statement of Rich is that McTighe and Catcher Joe Boyle were signed by Birmingham and were loaned to the Kankakee club. The two players were owed money by Kankakee and they came East a month ago and were signed by Haverhill. President Rich says that in baseball law the players were free agents and that he will hold them.

PLAYS ELEONORA SEARS FOR TITLE

MAGNOLIA, Aug. 11.—By defeating Miss E. Jones in the third round of the women's singles in the annual Magnolia tennis tournament at the Oceanside courts Miss Dorothy Dutcher enters the finals. She plays Miss Eleonora R. Sears for the club honors to-day. Miss Dutcher defeated Miss Jones, 6—1, 6—4.

Two matches were played in the mixed doubles, but as there were not men enough entered the pairs were made up entirely of women.

EX-ALDERMAN TO TRY TO SWIM TO LIGHT

LOWELL, Aug. 10.—Ex-Alderman John W. Daly will attempt to swim from Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light Sunday, August 21. He has been training for some time for the event. Daly is a member of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. He served in both branches of the City Council and was twice a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor, but was not successful. He is one of the best amateur athletes in Lowell.

"JED" JONES MEETS COAST STAR TO-DAY

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 10.—Rapid fire tennis with an upset of sensational importance kept players and spectators busy. The playing of J. D. E. Jones amazed the gallery. Jones defeated W. F. Johnson 6—4, 3—6, 6—1, and then beat W. M. Tilden 6—3, 6—3. Jones is now coupled with the Californian, Maurice E. McLoughlin, in the next to-day.

CLEVELAND FANS WANT RED SOX TO WIN FLAG

Here is what they say in Cleveland about our baseball city, and a few nice things about the Red Sox:

"The Red Sox are always welcome, not only because they play clean ball, but welcome because they represent the best baseball city in the world—the best baseball city in point of patronage by a hundred or more per cent. and then some, and the best baseball city in its treatment of home or visiting players.

"Often does it happen that a team out on an Eastern trip, after playing to bare expenses in Washington, Philadelphia and New York, will go to Boston and make a "clean up" of $10,000 or $15,000 in a three or four-game series, and often does this happen at a time when the Red Sox are not in the running at all.

"When the Boston American team was having the second worst slump in major league baseball history a few years ago, the Naps arrived in the Hub for a four-game series. The Red Sox had already lost fifteen games in a row, but 10,750 people came tumbling out that afternoon, only to see them get their sixteenth straight defeat.

"And even this sixteenth straight defeat did not disturb the fans as much as does the second or third disaster in most big cities. There were cheers for every good play and no jeers for the errors and mistakes.

"If ever a city deserved a baseball pennant by the sheer merit of its toleration and appreciation, that city is good old Boston.

"With eight cities like Boston in the league the club owners could all afford to pay $5,000-a-year salaries and to carry twenty-five men on their pay rolls.

"With eight cities like Boston in the league baseball's millennium would already have been reached, for hisses, hoots and groans are unknown at the Hub and the visiting player gets fully as much applause as does the home performer.

"With eight cities like Boston in the league the eight club owners in the league would clean up close to eight million dollars, for in Boston the people go out to see a ball game and not alone to see the home team win.

"Some day, maybe, some rich club owner will hire a lot of special trains and take all the fans in the other cities of the league to Boston to see a ball game. It would surely be worth while, for Boston fans are the most liberal in all the world. They would, at any time, rather see the home team lose a well played game than to win a poorly played contest.

"What a glorious game baseball would be if fans everywhere could be induced to adopt that same spirit of appreciation and toleration."

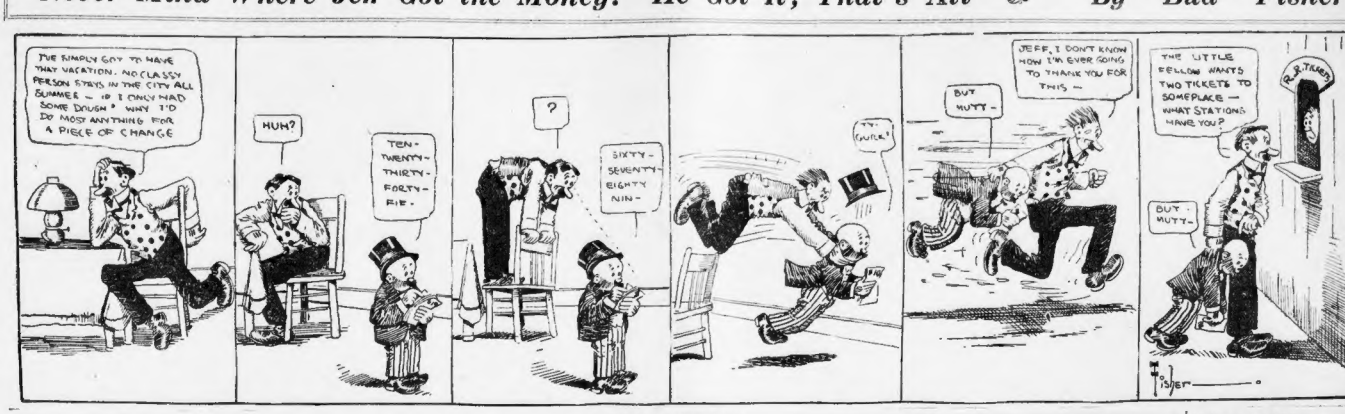
HARRY LORD SAYS HE HAS NO GROUCH AGAINST RED SOX

Never Mind Where Jeff Got the Money. He Got It; That's All — By "Bud" Fisher



GIVES DETROIT SECOND PLACE

Jack O'Connor, manager of the St. Louis Browns, picks the Tigers to finish second. Because they outhustle any team in the league. He says the Athletics should finish first, but not without a hard fight.

"There is no reason to believe that the Detroit pitchers won't return to form," says O'Connor. "They've just had an ordinary pitching slump. If Dubuc or Mullin were showing signs of slowing up, it would be time to count the Tigers out, but that isn't the case. Mullin and Dubuc are still great pitchers, and will win many games.

"Hustling has won as many pennants as good pitching or batting, and that is where the Tigers shine. They outhustle the Athletics. Connie Mack's team plays a brilliant mechanical game, and Collins, Baker, Barry and Thomas are hustlers, but every Detroit player works every minute. The Athletics' big lead is the only thing that gives them the call. They can stand to lose a game now and then, while the Tigers have had no such luxury.

"Detroit will outhustle and beat out Boston. The Red Sox have a dash and snap to their play that isn't a class lower than the Tigers. The Yankees will be last in the first division."

No team in the American League is quite so well supplied with utility men as the Yankees. One or two infielders or outfielders can be out, and the team will be almost as strong as before. Even Hal Chase hasn't been missed very much.

Roach, Pester and Laporte, the utility infielders, have it on any other minutemen in the league. Laporte is especially good. He can play second, third or short equally well, and is a fine hitter. Laporte and Roach are also good outfielders.

STRAIGHT TIPS
FOR SPORT FANS

THEY'RE WITH US TO-DAY. THE Peerless Leader and his band. I am not referring to "Doc" Bryan, or the gent with the mahogany baton, but to Frank Chance and his bunch of Cubs. There's class to that aggregation. I would willingly give my sonse the wherewithal to purchase rose in buckets if our Red Sox and the Chicago wonders could mix it up in a world series. Unless the Doves play real ball the Cubs will get away with the series.

IS THERE A CONNECTING LINK BEtween the canning of Lord and the recent defeats of the Red Sox? All that the Red Sox have been able to do so far is to split even on their Western trip. By the way, are you keeping your lamps on Meehan, the "white-haired" rightfielder of the White Sox? He's awfully good. Three hits in that game yesterday shows he is some ball player, eh?

THERE'S NOTHING LOW-BROWED about Harry Lord. He's not carrying around a gnawed, or making a lot of loud talk about what a crowd of dubs his former teammates are. Nothing like it. Harry says he has no complaint against the team or the management, and that the trade or sale is one of the many things incidental to the career of every player. There's a whole lot of good baseball fans in this town who think that the Red Sox will never be able to cop the bunting without their stellar third baseman. Believe me, whatever club gets Lord will get a cracker-jack—and a good fellow.

CAN'T GET AWAY FROM THE FACT that Connie Mack's Athletics are a great bunch of ballplayers. They have won so many games that if they lose it will cause a sensation in baseball. They trimmed the Tigers yesterday, 8 to 2. Coombs was in the box. This reminds me that it was this same fellow Coombs who pitched that 1 to 0, twenty-six-inning game between the Athletics and Red Sox in this town four years ago. He's evidently still there with the ball that fools.

Straight Tips—Say, Mr. Man, I think you are about the most abused man in Boston town. That's on the straight. What a man has the goodness to answer a thousand and one foolish questions and never turn a hair. Oh, very. There's a man for you. But that isn't the point I'm driving at, which is that some particular fan makes efforts to ask clear doubts and corrieties on questions. the answers to which are published very day in the papers. I'd like to put a question similar to the one you run in the BOSTON AMERICA, but I'll be allowed if I could stand for some of the answers these guessers have been giving me. In fact I ever got one of the letters which is now in my possession I'd certainly frame it and preserve it as priceless treasure. Some day or other I'll have a book drop out of the clouds with a professional shooter's license in my pocket and sailing alongside of me as well as the motto. Horse and Speedway Notes

The much mooted question of the week in amateur driving circles here in town is settled. Gallagher 2:02¾, the game old pacing warrior, will carry the colors of the Metropolitan Driving Club in the fast pace at the inter-club matinee at Combination Park on Saturday. How fast do you think the "iron horse" can step a half mile over the course by the Mystic river? Some of his admirers think he will turn the trick in 1:03¾.

Jimmy Carpenter has shipped Baron Aberdeen, his clever little green trotter by Baron Wilkes, dam Fanny T., from Readville to Goshen, N. Y., where he is entered for the $1,000 2:25 trotting stake next week. "I leave to-night for Goshen," said Jimmy to the American, "and I have no idea how this fellow will step over a half-mile track, which is a wholly new experience to him. But it will not take me long to find out." Baron Aberdeen has stepped Readville a mile in 2:12, with a half in 1:03¾, and if right should make a grand showing at Goshen.

Eddie McGrath, trainer of the Shawsheen River Farm stable, has worked a fine mile at Readville with The Hugenot (3) 2:27¾, full brother to The Abbot 2:02¾ and The Abbe (in 2:04, by Chimes, out of Nettie King 2:20¼, by Manbrino King, in 2:16, sire of Nettie King 2:08¾, a great favorite with the family speed, is five years old, and should be a grand stake candidate next season. Eddie has also stepped the trotting yearling by Aquilin 2:19¾, dam Jolly Bird 2:15¼, an eighth in 17¾ seconds.

* * *

W. J. McDonald's little black trotting mare Dolly K, 2:13½, has a cracked hoof, from her condition of last week, and will be unable to start for the "Mets" at the inter-club matinee at Combination Park on Saturday. Harry Wood's Ogavio 2:15¾, will take the place of Dolly K.

* * *

John Young, trainer of the Alice Farm stable, has stepped Delgarvia, his unbeaten 2-year old filly by Bingara, a mile at Readville in 2:18½ and half in 1:07½. The filly is a full sister of the sensational young trotting mare Belvada, and is by Bingara, dam Perseo by Pistachio. Kilsaylo, the two-year-old trotting filly by Kenwig 2:07¾, worked in 2:20, with a half in 1:09.

* * *

Henry Tiller has shipped from Readville for the race meet at Goshen, N. Y., the 2-year old stud Barton, by Bingen, dam Dreamworld Miss Maid, and the 3-year old filly Sadie B, of the same breeding, owned by Dr. W. A. Blodgett of South Lincoln, and who will start in the rich futurities at the Empire State track. Henry has gone to Goshen to give his charges an early preparation upon the half-mile course.

* * *

These are busy days for Charley Thyon, who is up at daylight each morning to work out the old gray pacing mare Outcast 2:18¾, at Combination Park, in preparation for the inter-club matinee Saturday. Thyon's son is the driver. While a man has the goodness to answer a thousand and one foolish questions and never turn a hair, he is very, very human at that. But that isn't the point I'm driving at, which is that some particular fan makes efforts to ask clear doubts and corrieties on questions. the answers to which are published very day in the papers. I'd like to put a question similar to the one you run in the BOSTON AMERICA, but I'll be allowed if I could stand for some of the answers these guessers have been giving me. In response to numerous inquiries regarding Easter Direct 2:09¾, the newest pacing sensation in inter-club racing circles here in town, the Journal is willing to state she is a 10-year-old mare by Direct, dam Cleo G. by Yosemite, and was bred by P. A. Gammon of Courtland, N. Y. Dexter Direct, took her record over the Poughkeepsie N. Y. track, Aug. 15, 1907.

The Abbe 2:04, is already a 2 to 1 favorite every time he turns around in the pacing stake and purses.

LEON KETCHEL A RING ARTIST

Just now Stanley Ketchel is middleweight champion and only representative of the Ketchel family in the pugilistic world. But within a few years there may be another champion in the game bearing the family name. The younger edition is Leon Ketchel, the 15-year-old brother of the champion, and he is a clever boy with the gloves.

Up to the present time Leon has confined himself entirely to boxing in various athletic clubs in his home city, Grand Rapids, but even in these little bouts he has shown himself in the role of a knock-out artist. One evening he disposed of three boys at one of the clubs. He has a right that is dangerous even at this stage of the game, and like his older brother, is always willing to get in and mix it.

There is fewer a mill in which Stanley is mixing it that he does not camp in a newspaper office and root for Leon.

At the time of the recent battle between his brother and Sam Langford, Leon was more interested than ever. Reports varied on the battle, and he happened to get one that had Stanley a beaten man. He read the reports without a word. His eyes filled with tears. Coming to the table he looked up, forced a smile and said: "Well, I guess it's up to me to keep a champion while in the Ketchel family."

At present Leon weighs about 120 pounds. His pugilistic aspirations do not make a hit with Stanley, however.

CREWS READY FOR NATIONAL REGATTA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Oarsmen from many cities in the United States and Canada are arriving in Washington to compete in the national regatta on the Potomac River Friday and Saturday. Among the first to arrive was the Mound City four-oared crew of St. Louis in charge of Coach Wray, the Harvard coach.

Many visitors are expected from all parts of the country for the water races, and the chairman of events on excursion steamers and yacht club verandas has been steady for more than a week.

Among the crews to arrive to-day were those of the Riverside Club of Cambridge, Mass.; the St. John's Rowing Club of New Orleans, and the Central Boat Club of St. Louis.

LYNN AND HAVERHILL TEAMS SWAP DATES

LABOR DAY FIGHT IS OFF.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Aug. 11.—The proposed welterweight championship contest between Cyclone (Johnnie) Thompson of Chicago and Gus Burbos of this city, scheduled to take place here Labor Day, has been called off. A disagreement between the club managers and excessive demands by one of the boxers was given as the cause.

BOXING NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Matt Wells writes from Stratford that Bill Lang is anxious to get him to Australia to put Stanley Ketchel out. Friday Wells says he will be in Boston. Wells says the Australian is the best man in the ring he has ever seen and that he will make a sensation when he is seen here.

According to Wells, the bouts between Tommy Burke and Langford are fraining are jokes. He says that the Sailor spends all the time eating up and drinking, and that he is afraid to take a chance at any time. Wells says wonderful ration of Burke's glances off the Australian's jaw without even making him blink. When Lang lands Tar is ready to quit.

Jack Johnson laughs at the idea of Sam Langford being able to reach the $20,000 side for a fight with Joe Woodman, though, says he will have the coin up in a day or two, and that then it will be a case of hunting cover for the champion.

Manager Harry Edwards has decided to allow women to see the Langford-Kaufman fight in Philadelphia on the 19th. He does not expect that many women will take advantage of the chance, for in the East it is not thought quite the thing to go to prize fights.

Joe Hall is looking for a fight for Jack Williams. He thinks that Billy Glover would be soft for his man and wants Jack Dougherty to come through and make the match.

Baseball News and Notes.

There's an old saying that left-handed ball players are crazy. Shooting the ball from parts are possibles to star ball player Rube Benton, the $6,500 beauty, has disappeared. Don't scold him for he isn't responsible for his actions.

* * *

Pitcher Pfiester of Chicago will be out of the game for six weeks with a broken arm.

* * *

Sir Roger Bresnahan, the St. Louis manager who started Brooklyn fans by discarding the pad and mask and stalking proudly to the pitcher's box, began his twirling career with the Washington club of 1897.

* * *

Since Sherwood Magee punched a rowdy for batting him from the stands Philadelphia fans are possibles to star ball player as the "hope of the white race."

Lajoie, Cobb, Speaker, American League, and Snodgrass and Magee, National League, are the five players who have the best chance of equaling the $1,50 automobiles for piling up the highest batting average. Hans Wagner got such a bad start that, although he's now hitting .300, he has been counted out of the competition.

* * *

Although Charley Comiskey of the White Sox expended $65,000 for new ball players in 1909, this year's team is a failure, and he will have to dig up all over again. The Chicago club owner has set aside another $50,000 to strengthen his 1911 team.

* * *

Rebel Oakes, St. Louis centerfielder, who cavorted in Herrmann's Cincinnati pasture in 1910, adds his testimony to a lot of Los Angeles residents that Jeffries was a hard whiskey drinker several years before he blew up in his battle with Jack Johnson.

* * *

Ray, the Browns' youngest pitcher, seems to be a mark for every club in the American League except Detroit. Whenever he steps out upon the firing line against the Tigers Jennings's men curl up and die.

* * *

Detroit will recall Ness and Drake from the minors. Both of these men are cracker-jack hitters, and should have been retained at the start of the current season.

* * *

You don't hear much of George Stone nowadays. The once famous slugger seems to be almost forgotten. Nevertheless he is working faithfully for the Browns and is getting his quota of singles.

* * *

Walter Johnson not only pitched great ball Thursday but made a home run. The big Swede doesn't hit the ball very often, but when he does accidentally connect he smashes the hide off it.

* * *

Cal. McVey, the once famous star of the ancient Reds, is again reported penniless in California. Oldtime fans might contribute to a little fund to help this grand player in his declining years.

* * *

Puzzle: How many games less than nothing would the St. Louis Browns have won this season if they hadn't had Joe Lake?

* * *

The Giants will close up like clams and be content to trail along like good children from now on. They have cracked out of them by the gawful trimming they have been handed by the Cubs.

* * *

Jack Coombs has been showing great form this season. He has been a grand factor in the advancement of Mack's hustling team.

* * *

Fred Tenney is preparing a series of articles on players he met in the long ago. If Fred surely met a large number, and, as he can write quite well, the series ought to be entertaining.

* * *

Oh, the printers! The name of Meloan, Comiskey's new outfielder, was set up Mc-Leah in a barrel of newspaper offices.

* * *

Umpire Colliflower has been duly appointed on the staff of the American League. They'll call him Cabbage for short around the circuit.

* * *

Chillicothe seems to have discovered a rival of a catcher in a youth named Lake, who is an able backstop and a noble hitter. Watch his smoke.

* * *

Stanage of the Tigers is a corking good hitter in the fast company, and yet his output in the Eastern League was .197. Clyde Engle also hats much better in the major company than he did in the Eastern circuit.

SOX TO COAST ON SPRING TRIP

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—President John I. Taylor has decided to take the Red Sox to California to train next spring. He will have them get out at the springs in Southern California and then start them at Frisco, playing exhibition games, working East.

President Tip O'Neill of the Western League has been working out the itinerary since early this Spring and has completed dates and leases of ball parks from Frisco to Chicago. There will be no attempt to take in the money in California, but rather to give the Coast and the Western people a chance to see the Red Sox and their best team out for business.

The Boston players will meet at San Francisco, March 1, and practice for a week before playing the first game with one of the leading coast teams. As Boston is training in the South this will be a repeat with what Winter on the Pacific slope. The Red Sox will be in condition to show form from the first game. They will play a series of games with the clubs at Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Francisco and Oakland, making mid-week trips into the interior of the State. The team will not start East until April.

'DON ARELLANES EASY FOR JOHN I. TAYLOR

John I. Taylor, owner of the Red Sox, is a fine golfer, but Frank Arellanes, his Spanish pitcher, didn't know as much about the game as Taylor when the pair in the Windy City as he will know when he gets back to Boston.

"How far can you knock a golf ball?" Arellanes asked Taylor, who had just told of a little 18-hole match he'd played at the Country Club.

"Oh, I guess I can knock one out of any ball park in the country if I have good luck," was Taylor's modest reply.

"I'll bet you $5 that you can't put it over the right field fence at Somers Point home plate in five trials," bantered Arellanes.

"You're on," said Taylor, and Arellanes won the money, when Hugh Hooper, a real golfer, told him how easily Taylor could win the bet. It's only 100 yards to the right field fence in Boston, and Taylor can drive a ball 200 yards when in anything like his usual form.

GIRL SWIMMERS IN BOSTON 1915 SPORTS

"Matt" Leary is confident there will be at least 1,000 entries for the 1915 Boston Island swimming meet to be held Saturday, June 26, 1915. The "tadpoles" entered in the 50-yard dash have mastered the crawl stroke like professionals. Among the little girls are Annie Mooney, Olive Jenkins, Mary McNamara and Elizabeth Lavery. The Misses Jenkins, McNamara and Lavery will also give some exhibition side and dolphin diving.

Some of the older stars among the girls are Alice Damon, Elsie Dean and Lydia Greening. There is hot rivalry between the Duke brothers and Jim Morris in the 440. Walter Laundry is after a record in the under-water swim.

KING JAMES HAS WON $100,000

King James, owned by Sam. Hildreth, has joined the "great winners" of $100,000 or more of the American turf. The son of Plaudit the Kentucky Derby winner of 1898, crossed the much-coveted line recently and to-day he has to his credit $102,566.

A strange incident in connection with King James's career is that he is a greater horse than was his sire. Plaudit won $35,770 on the turf, and King James has him beaten up to the present time, $66,798. During the four years King James has been on the turf he started 46 times. Of those 46 starts King James won 18 races, was second 10 times, third nine times and unplaced nine times. He has won such prominent handicaps and stakes as the Metropolitan, Brooklyn, Burns, Ocean, Omnium, Tremont, Clotoso and Annual, Champion, and he was second in the Suburban, Brooklyn Derby, Commonwealth, Realization and Advance.

As a two-year-old King James earned $14,525. During his three-year-old career he picked up $38,535, a sum he nearly equaled as four-year-old, winning last year $38,238. So far this season he has accumulated $11,455. King James's great winnings are all the more remarkable because he won in the years when there was a great depression in the value of racing stakes.

SOUTH END GIRL MAKES NEW RECORD

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—Miss Katherine C. Berlo of South Boston, one of the diving girls appearing this week at Dominion Park, has established a record for women swimmers over the St. Lawrence river course from Longueil to the park, a distance of more than two miles. Miss Berlo covered the course against a strong current, and without resting or floating, in one hour and seven minutes. She is the daughter of Mrs. Lizzie Berlo of No. 504 East Sixth street, South Boston. Her mother and six sisters are all well-known swimmers. She has won a number of medals and other trophies in swimming contests.

Pfaff's Beer

We have seen a great change in the attitude of the public toward good beer, and we expect to see a still greater change in the future. Good beer is now generally recognized as not only harmless, but healthful, and each year more people enjoy it, and physicians prescribe it as a tonic.

We believe this recognition will grow and spread, and that Pfaff's Beer will increase in popularity even more rapidly than in the past.

And we pledge ourselves to the public that we shall endeavor to deserve their increasing friendship by making "Pfaff's" always a synonym for "the best."

Mirandy On the Woes Of the Fat Woman

By Dorothy Dix

"HAS you read in de paper," asked Mirandy, 'about how, down at dat place at de seaside', dey done passed a law dat de fat women is got to stay in de water all de time, or else git out and git on dere clothes?

"Dey says dat any lady dat tilts de scales at 200 pounds ain't regarded as a beach ornament, an' ain't a-gwine to be allowed to stroll along de sand or set about in her sty-ly bathin' suit an' eat ice cream an' show off her figger, lak dem livin' skeletons does.

"Ain't dat a shame, a measly shame? But dat's de way it goes. Don't nobody love a fat woman, an' she ain't got no rights. Yit dey calls dis a free country. Free! Huh! Dere ain't nothin' dat a fat woman is free to do but to part an' perspire, an' take all de back-handed licks dat folks hands her.

"What rights has a fat woman got? When she gits on a street car everybody kind of groans lak she done come whar she ain't got no invite, an' when she goes to de movin' picture show de folks behind her an' on both sides of her sets up wid de expression of a Early Christian Martyr what's done been passidoted beyond what dey endures. De only place where she is welcome is at church, whar she sort of fills up de lonesome places in de pews.

World Cruel to Fat Women

"An' nobody don't know how hard, an' cold, an' cruel de worl' is outed dey is a fat woman, dat tries to git some cloth. Dere ain't no fashions made for one, an' de dressmaker looks at you wid a eye t' reproach—as if you is got a thirty-two inch waist measure on purpose to spite her passonally—an' says dat dey ain't wearin' bips dis year, but dat she'll do her best ter help you out, an' may de Lawd have mercy on you' soul.

"An' dere ain't no scandal, dat can git out on you, dat does you as much harm as for folks to find out what you weighs, if you goes over de 150 pound mark. Yassum, you'd better bust all de Ten Commandments of you'se a woman, dan to bust de scales.

"If a woman wants to throw asparagus on another woman's character, she starts off by sayin' dat she's fat, an' when one of dese heah female cats wants to draw de blood she comes a smilin', an' a purrin' up to you, an' she says, lak butter wouldn't melt in her mouth:

"'Why, Sis Mirandy, how well you is lookin'! You must have put on about fifteen pounds since I saw you last, ain't you?'

"'And you dasn't follow up yo' feelin's an' snatch off her bonnet becase, as I told thefo', a fat woman ain't got no right, an' can't heave bricks when anodder lady is suits her to her face.

This, the Worst Fate of All.

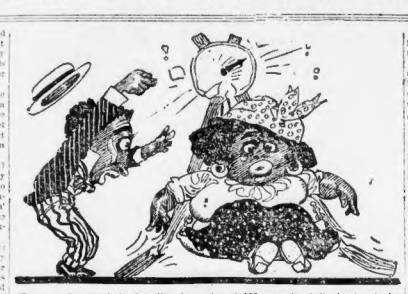
"An' de wuss part of hit is dat, when a fat woman's husband goes ahe stepp'pin' after some slim young gal and a straight front figger, dere ain't nobody sorry for her, but dey acts lak dey thinks dat she had a slightly good excuse.

"'Of course, dere ain't many fat young gals, which is de mercy of Providence, for a snow flake in de hot place is got about de same sort of a show dat a real hefty gal has for gittin' a husband. Hit don't make no difference how pearl she is, nor how much she knows, nor what a master hand she's got wid de cookin' stove, de men passes her up.

"'When she goes to a party, you don't see de young bucks a figurin' to dance wid her; an' nobody ever heard of a man dat pined away an' died for de loss of a plump lady love.

"'Hit's always de skinny women dat can marry two or three times a-piece, an' yit although an' insurance add ve'y undesirable. Nowm, a fat woman never does have any luck; an' ef she does git married at all, she drops dead wid de apoplexy a wastin' on her husband, befo' she ever gits a show of bein' a widder.

"You never did see a picture of a fat angel, did you? Nemm. Nelder did I. All de sainted glass angels dat ever I seed looked lak dey had dos been resurrected out of de home yard; an' yit, in real life, dere is many a time when dat selfsame fat woman has looked to me lak hit might a been caused by de sprootin' of her angel wings, instead of what May June—what most grand highfalutin' language—call de superabundance of adipose tissue.



"Dey say dat any lady dat tilts de scales at 200 pounds ain't a'gwine to be allowed in a sty-ly bathin' suit."

"Nobody don't love de fat woman, an' nobody ain't sorry for us; we ain't got no rights and we has a hard time catering Cupid."

"Yessum, ef you wants anybody to do you a kindness, or to lend you de loan of a cup of sugar, when you'se out, you go to a fat woman ev'ry time, an' you'll git hit. An' she ain't de kind of a woman, elder, dat scandalizes her neighbors. Hit takes one of dese heah women, dat's de shape of a telephone post, an' has got a face lak a hatchet, to stir up trouble in de neighborhood.

"An' ef I was a man, I'd pick out a fat wife ev'ey time; because, for one thing, a fat woman is good natured, or else she wouldn't be fat, an', for anodder, she wouldn't git around so spry dat she'd always be able to keep her eyes on me.

"Yassum, dere's a lot of safety for a man in bein' married to a woman, dat would rather set in a rockin' chair an' fan herself dan be prancin' round de country on his trail.

"An' a fat woman is she' to be a good cook, because she loves to eat, an' hit ain't no hardship to her to fix up vittels tasty, lak hit is to de woman dat's got de dyspepsy, an' has got to live on oatmeal, anyway, so she puts de grocery money in a hat with a seventeen dollar fedder on hit instead of lettin' hit go into her husband's stomach.

"Nobody Loves a Fat Woman."

"Yassum, we fat women has got our good points, but we don't git no credit for 'em. Because we ain't livin' pictures—dough for my part I don't see why dem ladies what's all curves ain't as good lookin' as dem what is all angles—nobody dont love us, an' nobody ain't sorry for us; an' we ain't got no rights, an ev'ybody looks down on us.

"What's dat you say? Most 'fat women seem to be married? Oh, well, honey, a man marries a slim gal an' den she stoutens up an' he be a fat woman, which shows dat de Lawd is our merciful to men an' gives 'em and dey deserves.

"Which I am always a-tellin' like, who is misdoubts, don't always appreciate de goodness dat he's got in a wife, lak he ought to."

The Illustrious Prince

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1910, by Little, Brown & Company.

CHAPTER XXXII.—(Continued.) Prince Maiyo Speaks.

"THE Prince forgets," Benbourne remarked dryly, "that an invasion of this country—a practical impossibility—is very nearly an impossible thing."

The Prince laughed softly.

"My friend," he said, "if I thought that you believed that, although you are a cabinet minister of England, I should think that you were the biggest fool who ever breathed. To-day, in warfare, nothing is impossible. I will guarantee, I, who have had only ten years of soldiering, that if Japan were where Holland is to-day, I would halve my strength in sixty days, I would halve my strength in ten, and I would overrun your country with ease at any time I chose. You need not agree with me, of course. It is not a subject which we need discuss. It is, perhaps, not of my province to allude to it. The feeling which I have in my heart is this. The laws of history are incontrovertible. So surely as a great nation has weakened with prosperity, so that her limbs have lost their suppleness and her finger joints have stiffened, so surely must the disaster come in good time. The nation which loses its citizen army drives the first nail into its own coffin. I do not say who will invade you, or when, although, to my thinking, any one could do it. I simply say that in your present state invasion from some one or other is a certain thing."

Without admitting the truth of the slight, Benbourne smiled. "And you, your Prince," he remarked, "there is another aspect of the subject which I think you should consider. If you think it is a certain thing that I am surely scarcely minded to entertain it. The part of a good citizen is to do what he can to prepare his country for any contingency. It will not leave us so unready to our own defence. Still think it would be well to have halved the strength of the world as they while you found Rivers?"

Then the Prince replied, with one of the complacent smiles which had expired. "It is for the treaty our country produced more than twenty years ago. For reason why we should renew it under altered conditions. It is not a question of public sentiment, but it is nothing to do with the making of treaties.

"We are, nevertheless, Benbourne declared, "thinking seriously about it, and you some of the advantages which you have gained from your alliance. I think you will realize, I suppose, that was not our intention that the alliance should have one-sided benefits?"

An Alliance of Color.

"Your good offices were duly acknowledged by my Government," the Prince admitted. "Yet what is to be done in the way of consequence as well as mere words? As north and south are unity, and as Japan and America are unity, and as east and west are of purpose, so, in another sense, is all other nations in existence. You and I are two as women are sweethearts. You and I—the color of the skin, the shape of the eyes of years have passed, Japan and America, as two sweethearts, have come to know, as it will not be put you will yet we."

"An alliance duly concluded between the colors?"

The Prince bowed out both his hands. "Listen," he said. "I distinctly agree certain person in America, and I am sure you in public terms what your position would be if Japan and America were declared. What has your reply?"

Benbourne was on the point of resenting the last, but the Prince hurried on.

"You appear to be a perfect secret service, my friend," he said, with a smile. "Perhaps you can also tell us our reply?"

"I can tell you," Benbourne replied, answered. "You did not send word back to Washington, but you have come to the sacred charge upon your honor and that its terms must be fulfilled to the utter most letter. Your reply, I fancy, was more in the nature of a compromise."

"How do you know what our reply was?" Mr. Haviland asked.

"To tell you the truth, I do not," the Prince answered, smiling. "I have simply told you what I am assured that your answer must have been. Let us leave this matter. We gain nothing by discussing it.

"You have been very candid with us, Prince," Mr. Haviland remarked. "We gather that you are opposed to a renewal of our alliance chiefly for one reason first, that you have formed an unfavorable opinion of our resources and capacity as a nation; and secondly, because you are seeking an ally who would be of service to you in one particular eventuality, namely, a war with the United States. You have spent some time upon the Continent. May we inquire whether your present attitude is the result of advances made to you by any other Power? If I am asking too much, leave my question unanswered."

The Prince shook his head slowly.

"To-night," he said, "I am speaking to you as one who is willing to show everything that is in his heart. I will tell you them. I have been in Germany, and I can assure you of my own knowledge that Germany possesses the mightiest fighting machine ever known in the world's history. That I do truthfully and honestly believe. Yet listen to me. I have talked to the officers. We have seen them in barracks and on the parade ground, and I tell you this. When the time arrives for that machine to be set in motion, it is my personal conviction that the result will be one of the greatest surprises of modern times. I say no more, nor must you ask me any questions, but I tell you that we do not need Germany as an ally. I have been in Russia, and although the wounds have crossed, there can be no real friendship between our countries till time has rolled out the memory of our recent conflict. France hates us because it does not understand us. The future of Japan is just as near as the disaster which hangs over Great Britain. There is only one possible ally for us, only one possible combination. That is what I have written to you long since—the Empire. That is what I pray that our young professors will teach throughout Japan. That is what it will be our mission to teach my country people if the fates will that I return safely home. East and West are too far apart. We are well outside the coming European struggle. Our strength will come to us from nearer home."

"China!" the Prime Minister exclaimed.

Japan's China.

"The China of our own making," the Prince declined, a note of tease enthusiasm creeping into his tone—"China recreated by its great lapse of a thousand years. You and I in our lifetime shall not see it, but there will come a day when the ancient confines of Persia and Greece and Rome will seem as nothing before the all-pervading empire of China and Japan. Until those days we need no allies. We will have none. We must accept the hostility of America and the rough hand of Europe. We shall be strong enough to wait."

A footman entered the room and made his way to the Duke's chair.

"Your grace," he said, "the gentleman is staying his room Downing street who says he is speaking from the Home Office."

"Whom does he want?" the Duke asked.

"Both your grace and Mr. Haviland," the man replied. "He wished me to say that his visit was of the utmost importance," he added, "and that he would call again at the clock."

"An extraordinary hour," he remarked, "for timetime to be wanting us. Prince, what do you what it means, Haviland? You will excuse us, Prince?"

The Prince bowed.

"I think that we have talked enough of serious affairs to-night," he said. "I shall challenge Sir Edward to a game of billiards."

Remembrance

By MARY EVA KELLY

HOW my heart aches for you!
How my heart breaks for you,
All the day, all the night, all the year through!
Ah! though I sigh for you,
Ev'n till I die for you,
Never a meeting may come for us two!

How my heart craves for you!
How my heart raves for you!
Haunted by thoughts that will ever cling.
Ah! but no gleam of you,
Only this dream of you,
Daylight or midnight or twilight will bring!

Ah! for the vanished years,
Seen through my blinding tears,
Down the black river of life as I go—
Drifting all wearily,
Onward so wearily,
While the rain falls and the wild tempests blow.

Burning with love for you,
Looking above for you,
Filled with this longing and sorrow and pain!
Ah! though I'd sigh for you,
Ev'n till I die for you,
Never on earth shall we two meet again!

These Monkeys Are Taught To Kiss

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It is a desecration of a kiss to see these hideous monkey lips pressed together.

DID you ever see anything more hideous than this?

These animals have been trained to imitate the kiss, the token of affection between human beings.

Of all animal creation, human beings are the only ones who kiss.

These monkeys are not kissing because they love each other; the kiss means nothing to them; it has simply been taught them by some clever trainer.

A number of earnest, energetic women are trying to suppress the kiss, but, as its popularity is of some millions of years' standing, I don't believe the ladies will make much headway.

That kissing is a much abused privilege there is no doubt. Some girls think nothing of allowing a man whom they barely know to kiss them.

There is no more value in a kiss of that sort than there is in the perfunctory little peck which some men give their wives at parting and meeting.

The man kisses the girl partly because he wants to, partly because he thinks she expects him to, and partly because—oh, well, she's a girl, and she's there, and why not?

Any girl who cares for that kind of kiss can get it. She isn't the first by dozens he has kissed; nor will she be the last.

A man will kiss any girl who gives him sufficient encouragement; but when he falls in love he does not care to think of his sweetheart as being one of the "many kissed" type of girl.

Keep the Kiss Sacred

Why don't you keep the sanctity of your lips for the man you love, girls?

A kiss does not mean very much to a man, but it should mean a great deal to a girl.

If it were not a sacred token of love, nature would have developed it in lower animals.

It is desecration of the kiss to see those hideous monkey lips pressed together.

The girl who is overgenerous with her kisses makes a great mistake.

A lightly won favor is lightly valued; don't forget that, girls.

Could you kiss a monkey? You shudder. And yet some of you allow men whose lips are far less clean than those of these monkeys to kiss you.

Don't kiss dogs or cats, or men whom you don't know and don't love.

Keep your kisses for your family and friends and the man who some day will earn your love and the right to kiss you continually.

To-day's Best Story

"AH, yes," sighed the young lady sadly "no more will I hear his footsteps on the garden path just as the clock strikes the hour of eight."

"Why, Edie!" gasped her friend.

"And the parlor light will never burn low for him again."

"You don't mean it?"

"I do, and, furthermore, he will never sit on this sofa three nights a week and call me sweet names, as he has been doing for two years."

"I am astonished."

"And to-night I am going to burn all the old love letters in that trunk in my room upstairs."

"But why are you going to throw him over?"

"Throw him over? Why, my dear girl, I'm going to marry him."

IMPARTIAL ENTHUSIASM

FOR either side they sound the drums
And play, "The Conquering Hero Comes."
'Tis lucky for campaigning tricks
A brass band has no politics.

Home Coming

AS I rode North, as I rode North,
My heart came out of prison.
I saw the hills go sliding forth
Like strong men newly risen.
Oh, the South is soft and merry, but one torches lighter strikes
That the fury of the battle when the North wind pipes and slings.

As I neared home, as I neared home,
My heart was like a lover's.
I heard across the windy gleam
The harsh voice of the plovers.
Oh, the South is wide and kindly, and if
hearth is warm and bright,
But the North bears on the welcome of a rough and windy night.

As I rode in, as I rode in,
The wind raved wide of prison.
I was a free man, near of kin
To strong winds newly risen.
Oh, the South is soft and merry, and the South is good to see,
But the stubborn lands and thrifty are the garden soil for me.

Three Eternal Things

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

OUR world is a world of change. Nothing remains.

Empires and dynasties and republics come and go.

The Rome of to-day is built over the cemetery of a greater Rome.

Its chants and sounds are wholly unlike the sights and sounds of that other Rome, those other Romes indeed, for there have been many since Rome first became a city of power.

In Northern Africa to-day there is green hill sloping down to the azure sea, with mountains in the background and nothing visible to the eye save the groups here and there of workmen making excavations. Yet this is where, at three periods, a magnificent city stood called Carthage.

Four hundred years before Christ there was a great and powerful Punic Carthage, and this was destroyed and buried under debris for centuries. Then rose another Carthage—the Roman Carthage—only to be destroyed a few hundred years afterward. And still later rose and fell the third Carthage.

All Are Buried Cities To-day

All are buried cities to-day, and excavators are hunting to light the relics and records of each. The Punic, the Roman, the Christian Carthage were all a dissimilar as a city in Africa, a city in India and a city in America are to-day. Even more dissimilar, for our modern inventions and methods of communication and rapid transit are destroying differences and leveling types all over the world.

The geographical face of the earth is continually changing. Once there was a great continent where there are now seas; the lost Atlantis. Once there were seas where now is the American desert.

So, always, and continually, the world is changing.

But with every change the watchful stars behold three things which never change.

Three Things Never Change

Always the lovers exist—in every era, in every clime; always the mother may be found with her child in her arms and the love light in her eye, and always the mourner is somewhere weeping over the dead.

THREE things, eternal as themselves are seen
By all the watchful stars, upon the earth.
Though cities vanish, and old creeds lose worth;
Though oceans roll o'er valleys that have been,
And glaciers stand where once the hills were green;
Though silence lies where there were song and mirth,
And kingdoms fall, and mighty wars take dearth—
Yet evermore these sentinels do lean
From the far heights above this world, and see
Two lovers kissing in some sheltered place,
A woman with a child upon her knee,
And a sad mourner, bending o'er the face
Whereon is set God's precious seal of rest.
Only the angels know which lot is best.

Married Companions

The Manicure Lady's Views.

"WELL, that last session sure ended me for the Sunday trips," said the Manicure Lady. "After this, at hot days I am going to unreel the sofa sheet to the coolest window of our humble flat and read all the magazine sections all day long. Or, what is the coolest place one can be, George, after all?"

"Maybe that is the coolest place one can be if one has a cool flat," said the Head Barber's wife, "but don't go for to think that it is in Charlestown, kid, mine. It sort of type, kid—change me!

"Maybe after I have stood on my feet eleven hours in the hot barber shop, d'ye after day, only to find it at the end of the week that I've made just enough to keep us going in a kind of fashion, I would like to treat it all to a boat ride and get a breath of air up along the coast of Maine, somewhere. I used to go there every Summer when I was single. I can't afford it any more. I used to play Revere Beach a night or two a week with my band. It's fresh kid with nobody to support. I can't even afford that now.

"But I don't tick. I just plug along and do the best I can, and deny myself everything I had when I was a bachelor. Never a squeal comes from me, and I wish the Missus would be a little more that way, too."

"Well," mused the Manicure Lady, "I did it have enough studying single to Rossini. It must be tough to be married when you're poor."

CHARLTON CASE GOES OVER

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 12.—By agreement of counsel the hearing of Porter Charlton, confessed slayer of his wife at Cosenza, Italy, was to-day postponed until September 30.

ALDRICH TO ADD ROCKY POINT TO VAST ESTATE

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 11.—Rocky Point, the far-famed excursion and clambake resort ten miles down Narragansett Bay, will probably be a thing of the past with the end of the present season. United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, who owns a long, wide stretch of the water front between the pleasure grounds and the end of Warwick Neck, has been looking it over, as a prospective purchaser.

It is even stated that the Senator has secured an option on Rocky Point, and that he has about concluded negotiations with the present lessee, ex-Assemblyman Randall A. Harrington, and the representatives of the Providence, Newport and Fall River Steamboat Company, the owners of the place.

Rocky Point, like the magnificent estate of Senator Aldrich, is naturally picturesque with a marvelous landscape and it has many acres of groves and dales and cliffy nooks. Rocky Point has been for sale for some time past. It was offered to the State for a pleasure ground reservation for $250,000, not very long ago, but the metropolitan board failed to buy it.

It is the present intention of Senator Aldrich to convert a portion of Rocky Point into a high-class stock farm, while the waterfront and rocky portions will be added to the attractions of his estate as a private shore place. The company to conduct the farming under the guidance of Senator Aldrich has already been granted a State charter.

RURAL PASTORS TO ASK MORE SALARY

AMHERST, Aug. 11.—Country clergymen from all parts of the country who are in attendance at the conference of agricultural educators and rural social workers adopted a uniform program for country church work, the program to be put into operation as soon as they return to their respective parishes. The program calls for united work looking toward a closer federation of churches, more public playgrounds, better sanitation and increases in salaries for rural ministers.

Some Funny Things Found in the News

OLD SOL REALLY IN LOVE.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—The sentimentally inclined may find an omen of importance in the statement of Rev. Father Martin Brennan, priest-astronomer, that there is a heart-shaped spot on the sun. It is an unusually large spot, being estimated by Father Brennan at from 30,000 to 70,000 miles in width.

FROZEN EGGS ARE FATAL.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—As the result of an experiment upon a guinea pig that died after being inoculated with frozen eggs, J. Bianchi, a dealer, was arrested on a charge of selling eggs unfit for food purposes.

HIS LAST SHAVE IN 1856.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 11.—Cornelius C. Parmelee, a lifelong resident of Bethlehem, is dead. Mr. Parmelee had the longest beard in Bethlehem. When Frémont was running against Buchanan for President, Parmelee vowed if Frémont were not elected a razor should never touch his face.

THIEVES HARVEST HAY CROP.

WINSTED, Ct., Aug. 11.—When Charles Dolphin visited his farm on the Colebrook road to "hay it," he found his crop gone. Unknown thieves had cut the grass and carted the harvest away.

WOMEN DENIED SMOKE ROOM.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 11.—The State Board of Agriculture has refused the request of women of the State for a smoking-room in the new women's building it is now erecting on the State Fair Grounds.

ROCKEFELLER PICTURE SHOW.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will alter the two-story, stone Catholic Chapel, No. 743 Fourth avenue, just north of the West Side Neighborhood House, into a moving picture show place at a nominal cost.

BIRD DISEASE KILLS GIRL.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 11.—Edna Adkins, aged eleven, has been died from a strange disease which was first discovered as infantile paralysis. The speed with which it developed caused the physicians to reconsider their decision. It was found to be the malady was very similar to a disease which was destroying a flock of pigeons.

ROTHSCHILD'S FIANCEE STILL IN SANITARIUM

VIENNA, Aug. 11.—Olga Menn, the beautiful Chicago girl for love of whom the young baron Oskar Rothschild shot and killed himself in his father's palace here, is in a sanitarium at Kaltenleutgeben a village near this city. She is in a very serous nervous condition as the result of the tragedy which ended the troublous courtship of the young baron.

Miss Menn is being cared for by her parents. They were to have sailed for America last week, but the daughter's collapse caused the father and mother to cancel their plans. If Miss Menn's condition warrants it, she will be taken to the nearest transatlantic port and started home next week.

The unfortunate young woman has been the object of the greatest pity. Twice a week she has visited the burial place of the Rothschilds and has prayed by the grave of the young baron she had expected to marry. Time does not seem to heal the wound in her heart.

The baron, during a trip to America, met the young Chicago girl and fell desperately in love with her. His father, one of the rich Rothschilds, had other plans for him and derailed his son. The young man was told flatly that he could not marry Miss Menn, and then rumors began to be spread which offended the good name of the young woman.

The young baron's heart was broken at this, and his last message to his sweetheart in Chicago was, "our dreams never will come true in this world." Her father came to the palace one afternoon after the baron's body had been found and found his son dead with a pistol in his hand.

Miss Menn's father, when he heard of the stories circulated about his daughter, threatened suit against the father of the baron, and went to Vienna with counsel to demand retraction and that he matter was settled out of court.

OLGA MENN, FOR WHOM ROTHSCHILD TOOK HIS LIFE

BUILDING MEN STRIKE.

Seventy building trades craftsmen, including carpenters, masons, bricklayers and building laborers, employed in the erection of a five-story building on Commonwealth avenue in the Brighton district, went on a strike to-day because of the alleged employment of three non-union men at rates less than those provided by the union schedules. The building is being erected by Spafford Brothers, contractors.

CARRIERS AID CITY'S BABIES ON MERCY SHIP

At the last meeting of the Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit Association a resolution was adopted by that body to assist in a work of the Floating Hospital, and a committee was appointed, with instructions to ascertain from the trustees of the hospital what would be the most acceptable manner of making a contribution to help along the good work of this excellent institution. The committee, constituting John C. Doherty, chairman; E. W. V. Pinnkas, J. F. McGeown, D. J. Desmond and P. A. Cunningham, treasurer, consulted with the hospital authorities, and as a result have secured Monday, September 12, as a date on which they may contribute to the welfare of the suffering babies.

The Mutual Benefit Association, wherein the idea originated, desired to make the necessary donation from the funds of the society, but deferred to the wishes of the few carriers who are not members of the association, and who wished to subscribe to the cause. The committee in charge therefore decided to ask for a small donation from the carriers, and the response was flattering.

SAXONIA HERE WITH 128 IN FIRST CABIN

The Cunarder Saxonia docked in East Boston at 7 a. m. to-day. The big steamship arrived at Boston Light at 9 o'clock last night and dropped anchor to await daylight. She brought 128 first cabin, 252 second cabin and 788 steerage passengers.

Among the most interesting passengers to arrive on the Saxonia were Sir Francis Campbell, LL. D., F. R. G. S., and Lady Campbell of London, formerly of Boston. Sir Francis Campbell is one of the few Americans who were knighted by the late King Edward. He is principal at the Royal College for the Blind in London and is stone blind himself. Sir Francis was born in Winchester, Tenn. He was educated at the Nashville Home for the Blind and was a teacher in the Perkins Institute for the Blind in South Boston from 1856 to 1870. In 1870 he went to Germany to study music.

Honored by Late King.

In 1871 he founded the Royal College for the Blind in London. At that time in England the blind were taught trades only. Campbell developed the American system of education for the blind, laying stress upon their physical and intellectual betterment. It was because of the great work he had accomplished and the recognition of that King Edward, about one year before his death, knighted the former Bostonian citizen.

Lady Campbell is also American born. Sir Francis and Lady Campbell were married at the dock by C. T. Campbell, their son, who was formerly a member of the Massachusetts General Hospital staff. Campbell and is now engaged in similar work in Pittsburg, Pa.

Professor and Mrs. E. E. Dwyer, Mrs. Dwyer, and a son and daughter, were also passengers on the Saxonia. Professor Dwyer, until recently, was a teacher in Robert College, Constantinople. He resigned because of the ill health of his family. The Dwyers are to make their future home in Brockton.

Turks in Christian College.

Professor Dwyer said that Robert College, for the first time in its history, has a large number of Turkish students. Under the old regime Turks were forbidden to enter Christian colleges.

Among the first cabin passengers on the Saxonia were Anita J. Palmer and Mrs. Pulitzer, who are returning home from Paris.

An interested spectator during the examination of the steerage passengers of the Saxonia was Immigrant Inspector Keyes, who is here from Washington. The Inspector-General paid a high compliment to Colonel George B. Billings, local commissioner of immigration, and his staff.

With the exception of two bequests of $25,000 each and legacies to servants, he cut off his relatives with $7,000 and $200.

BAREFOOTED THIEF ROBS ONSET HOMES

ONSET, Aug. 11. Deputy Sheriff Hurley is today hunting for a barefooted robber who has spread consternation among the Summer residents. He has committed three robberies and secured nearly $1,000. One he broke into caused the most excitement, evidently stuff of fact to confidence all purposes. He is the summer home of James H. Smith and Frank P. Farnum of Brockton and F. H. Page of Springfield.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Prices were quiet and irregular at the opening of the Stock Exchange to-day, and although Amalgamated Copper in London advanced half a point, the stock here remained unchanged. A few minutes after the opening the market settled down to about the closing prices of yesterday, but very little trading was done.

The Curb Market was strong and active in every quarter.

SHIRTWAIST POLICE FOR MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 11.—A police force, neatly attired in shirtwaists, is the possibility in Socialistic Milwaukee. The police are mature of the uniform has not been decided upon, but the entire strength of the Socialists is behind the shirtwaist and it seems certain that next Monday an ordinance will be passed ordering the chief of police to clothe his men in something more fitted to warm weather than the present garb of blue. Summer uniforms of cotton duck, and stiff starched collars.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Action of the market seems to confirm the views of those who believe the short interest has paid enough.

Rumors are current of several large short interests being settled privately. Why not? A violent rise in the market just now would be as disastrous as a severe break. What the big people want is a quiet market. They do not favor an advance of importance for they have yet to begin to buy back stocks sold earlier in the year. They want a great deal more information before they do so.

Another new reason has been discovered for the slump developed in the Amalgamated Copper people. It seems that the agreement to restrict production fifteen per cent. permits the company to close down those mines that cost high. It mines, officially, to have enough copper producers to yield its 85 per cent. quota at a cost of less than 9 cents laid down in New York. The Street is beginning to realize that if there is a permanent loss copper produced there will be 15 per cent. less smelting to be done.

The public also wants more information, especially from the Steel Trust. J. P. Morgan did much to allay fears when he said no more publicity, but he did not go as far as he will have to go. The shrinkage of unfilled orders as announced does not give a fair picture of the steel trade. The production also declined in July. It might be possible for production to fall much enough in very few months to leave the unfilled orders not reduced at all. The monthly earnings and the percentage of the trust mills in operation are the main public. Then the public can tell something about the conditions of trade.

The Steel Trust has seized the barometer of trade and it is time now it is the public to feast once a month.

If this exhibition is not made voluntarily, Congress will compel it. Mr. Morgan has said privately that he deplored the speculation of Steel Trust directors in its shares. The speculation was the result of the things that caused Rockefeller to quit the trust. Publicity would restore it.

Renewal by Consolidated Gas of $5,000,000 of notes for one year on a six per cent. basis is disappointing on the bull party. It is impossible to imagine a comparison with better credit than the consolidated Gas, and if such a concern has to pay six per cent. money, what must the ordinary merchant expect to pay before this year is ended? The abnormal accumulation of cash reserve in the New York banks is not for nothing. Much concern exists over this matter. Many think that will soon make their appearance for large sums of dollars. There is something wrong with a banking situation when money is let out on call at 1 per cent. freely and refused to the most substantial borrowers except at six per cent. Maybe the banks' market expert has got the hint and buy some of the bargain stocks they have for sale.

Guy & Sturgis have the following: Hopkins dispatch: "Indiana No. 7 hole in the strike was first struck at 900 feet, sanguished at a depth of 900 feet, or 500 feet above the Trenton rock, which is found covered in No. 2 hole should be. In this new pool discovery the gas is very strong and infused throughout the entire core. Considering the Newcomb copper, except that it is an anyzolite instead of sand stone like the Newcomb. This new formation did not appear in No. 2 hole."

Quite a number of commission houses have this week become converts to the long side owing to the change in the weather, that August is usually a month of rising prices.

Directors of Miami Copper Company are considering an increase in the capital stock which will be offered to stockholders at a figure below the present market price.

PLANT FIRM ANSWERS SUIT OVER MACHINES

Declaring that the leases of the United Shoe Machinery Company are "illegal, void and unenforceable?" the Thomas G. Plant Company has filed its answer in the Supreme Judicial Court to the suit brought against them by the United Shoe Machinery Company, in which it is alleged the Plant people have violated their leases.

The machinery over which the legal controversy is taking place is used in the manufacture of footwear. The Thomas G. Plant Company, in the course of its declaration, says:

The Declaration.

"Prior to and until in or about February, 1899, the Consolidated and McKay Lasting Machine Company, the McKay Shoe Machinery Company, the Goodyear Shoe Machinery Company, the Eagle Wire Stapling Company were engaged in the manufacturing and dealing in shoe machinery and were in competition by each thereof, constituting trade and commerce among several States and with foreign countries.

"Each one of said companies was itself a combination of concerns formerly engaged in competition in the shoe machinery business. Said companies were the largest and most important of those engaged in the United States in manufacturing and dealing in shoe machinery used for fastening soles to shoes, and the aggregate furnished the larger part of that class of shoe machinery at that time being put out in the United States.

Says There Is a Combination.

"Said plan of combination constituted an illegal scheme and conspiracy to create and maintain a combination in restraint of trade and commerce.

"The powerful organization, shortly after its organization, was fully advised of the scheme and conspiracy which had been devised by its promoters, Winslow, Brown and their associates, and with full knowledge thereof adopted said scheme and conspiracy as its own.

"The defendant, as stated in the plaintiff's bill, is and has been for several years engaged in the business of manufacturing shoes in the city of Boston, and has there maintained and operated a large factory thereof. It has invested in said business large sums of money and in the manufacture of its product it employs about five thousand persons.

Employes Out of Work.

"During the period that the plaintiff has maintained and illegal combination, the conspiracy and monopoly herein set forth, and as a consequence thereof and of the illegal methods and illegal instruments utilized in creating and maintaining the same, the defendant has been unable, until recently, to obtain such shoe machinery, accessories and supplies as were necessary for the proper conduct in the conduct of its business, otherwise than from the plaintiff, and has been and still is (recently) been constrained to obtain substantially all its shoe machinery and certain accessories and supplies (especially those manufactured and controlled by the plaintiff) as are obtainable only from the plaintiff or from persons acting in pursuance of the illegal combination and conspiracy hereinbefore set forth.

"The defendant avers and says that the plaintiff is and has been since its organization, an illegal combination in restraint of trade, and a monopoly, existing wrongfully and unlawfully in violation of the statute of July 20, 1890, commonly known as the Sherman act.

"And that, accordingly, said leases are wholly illegal, void and unenforceable against the lessee defendant or any of them."

The plea was filed by Whipple, Sears and Ogden, attorneys for the Plant Company.

ALL TYPES OF DEBUTANTES ON LONG LIST

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Debutantes of almost every type imaginable are looming up on the horizon, and the list of prospective buds is a most interesting and ever-increasing one. The season will no doubt be the gayest one in years, as this season's bouquet of buds represents the very best in wealth, position and everything else most desirable for a gloriously gay season.

Miss Helen Hooper is one of the most prominent of the buds, as she is wealthy in her own right and is one of the most attractive and popular girls of her set. She is enjoying a delightful preliminary canter at her beautiful North Shore home at Manchester just now, as her numerous relatives and the friends of her parents, the Robert C. Hoopers, are doing much for her amusement.

She has been abroad for some time and her young friends are whispering of the glories of her trousseau which she brought back with her. Miss Hooper is to be formally introduced at a ball to be given for her at the Somerset the last of January, but she is to have any number of hospitalities given in her honor before that time.

Miss Lillian Sears, the older daughter of Herbert Sears, is also to make her bow, and will no doubt be acclaimed by all as the beauty of her year. The Sears connection is exceedingly large, and Miss Sears is a favorite with all her relatives.

Pretty Susan Appleton is to do her "budding" a bit prematurely. She really belongs to next year's set of girls, but was so anxious to come out this season that her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Appleton, have finally consented and she is overjoyed at the prospect.

Another debutante of note whose season promises to be gay in the extreme is Miss Marion Lovering, only daughter of the Charles T. Loverings. She is pretty and vivacious, and her devoted brothers and their young wives are planning all sorts of festivities in her honor. Her brothers are Charles T. Lovering, Jr., who married Miss Lyman; Joseph Lovering of Milton, who married Elsie Bacon, and Richard Lovering, who married Mollie Eliot.

Mrs. Russell Sturgis is to introduce two daughters, Miss Caroline and Miss Frances, and their sister-buds are wondering if they, like all their sisters, will announce their engagements during their first year out. Miss Gertrude Sturgis came out a couple of years ago and shortly after her debut her betrothal was announced, and with the older girls, Mrs. George Clymer (Susan Sturgis), Mrs. Sidney Archer Lord (Anna Sturgis) and Mrs. Hepburn (Beatrice Sturgis), it was the same. The Sturgises are now at their Summer home at Campobello.

Other prospective buds include Miss Edith Parkman, daughter of the Henry Parkmans of Commonwealth avenue; Miss Rose Saltonstall, daughter of the Philip Saltonstalls; Miss Elizabeth Weld, Miss Gertrude Hunnewell, daughter of the Henry S. Hunnewells; Miss Katherine Ayer, Miss Elizabeth Thomas and Miss Elizabeth Parker.

This is the wedding day of Miss Madeline G. Ventre of Paris, who is the guest of Mrs. Robert Beattie (nee Daggett) at her Summer home at Swampscott, and George Daggett Gordon of Cleveland, O. The wedding takes place at Swampscott. It will be a quiet affair, with only relatives and near friends in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Barton of Worcester have issued cards for the wedding of their daughter, Helen Katherine, and Dr. William E. Ladd of Boston, at Worcester on Thursday, August 18, at 4:30 p. m. Dr. Ladd is a son of William J. Ladd of Milton. Miss Barton is well known in Boston, where she is closely identified with the younger set.

Mr. Franklin A. Snow of Washington street, Brookline, and her two attractive daughters, Miss Irene Snow, whom she presented two seasons ago, and Miss Beatrice Snow, who is still a school girl, are passing the Summer at Watch Hill, R. I., where the young girls are having no end of a good time. Both the Misses Snow are to take part in the vaudeville to be given the coming week at the Watch Hill House in aid of the Watch Hill Improvement Society, and also in the original entertainment entitled "The Discovery of Watch Hill," which is to be presented by society amateurs, members of the Summer colony.

Mrs. Thomas Motley and her two sons, J. Lothrop Motley and Warren Motley, whose Summer home is at Spouting Horn, Nahant, have sailed for Europe, where they will spend the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Edward W. Grew and her three young daughters are the guests of Mrs. Henry S. Grew at her Manchester estate. Mrs. Edward S. Grew is a daughter-in-law of Mrs. Henry Grew.

Mrs. George R. Wales of North Beverly is spending some time at North Woodstock.

Mrs. Anna P. Peabody of Commonwealth avenue, who is occupying Pine Knoll at Magnolia this Summer, has leased her Ipswich estate, Floriana, to J. T. Willetts of New York.

Miss Leonora Cobb has come on from Rockdale form, at Brewster, N. Y., the Summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ives Cobb of New York, to visit the parents of her fiance, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Amory, at their Summer home at Nahant. The wedding of Miss Cobb and Robert Amory, Jr., is to take place in September.

LOST AND FOUND

Unfortunately lost articles are not so obliging as Little Bo-Peep's sheep, who came home of their own accord.

A missing watch, bracelet, pocketbook, etc., must be dealt with drastically.

First — Nearly every one should be asked if they have found it, for among Boston's thousands of people you cannot otherwise tell which one picked it up.

Second — Quick action must be taken, as people who find things do not keep on reading "Lost and Found" advertisements or otherwise looking for owners.

These are two excellent reasons why missing articles of value should be advertised for in the AMERICAN and as soon as possible.

LOST—Pocketbook and valuable papers in Arlington Heights car, subway bound, between Boston and Boylston st., Aug. 8; reward. ELMAR FERNBERG, 1,247 Beacon st., Brookline.

The Fact Is That You "Notice" a Good MANY Things About Colonel Roosevelt

If You Notice Him on Parade, You Notice ONE Thing. And if You Notice Him WHEN HE MEANS BUSINESS—It's Another Thing

(Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner.)

Colonel Nelson, of Kansas City, is one of the most interesting, sincere and ingenuous of our very great men.

Like many other ingenuous and great men, Colonel Nelson thinks that the United States of America is made up chiefly of one man, named Theodore Roosevelt.

Everything in this world, according to Colonel Nelson, depends on Colonel Roosevelt. If Colonel Roosevelt decides to run for President—that is a very fine thing. And if he doesn't, that is "chaos and black night."

The Colonel from Kansas City was asked whether the Colonel from Oyster Bay could "come back."

"Come back," snapped the Colonel, "why, he would sweep the country. But I don't think he will run unless he has to."

Good, ingenuous Colonel Nelson. He probably thinks also that a duck wouldn't swim unless IT HAD TO.

Continuing, the Kansas City Colonel says of the Oyster Bay Colonel:

"You will notice that Colonel Roosevelt went to the coal mines, and not to the National City Bank; that he went to Father Curran, and not to J. Pierpont Morgan."

Perfectly right and true, good, ingenuous, Kansas City Colonel Nelson.

Just the other day Colonel Roosevelt DID go to the coal mines, and not to the National City Bank; he did go to Father Curran, and not to J. Pierpont Morgan.

But, good Colonel Nelson, you must read the newspapers, since you publish two or three of them. You certainly haven't forgotten that there are DIFFERENT PLACES that the Colonel goes to at DIFFERENT TIMES.

When he wants to delight the soul of Colonel Nelson of Kansas City he goes to the anthracite mines and to Father Curran.

But WHEN THE OYSTER BAY COLONEL MEANS BUSINESS HE GOES SOMEWHERE ELSE.

For instance, when he wanted to be elected he went to Mr. E. H. Harriman. And he asked Mr. E. H. Harriman for money, and he got Mr. E. H. Harriman's money, and it was spent on his campaign. And then he wrote to Mr. E. H. Harriman and said that he would like him to come to Washington and advise with Mr. Roosevelt, the President of the United States, as to the message of the President of the United States.

And whereas Colonel Roosevelt recently went to Father Curran, on other occasions he went to Mr. Odell, who was Mr. Harriman's political director.

These facts are supported by letters written and signed by Roosevelt—and Mr. Nelson, the ingenuous Colonel from Kansas City, may read them when he chooses.

It is all very well to praise Colonel Roosevelt when he goes to the mines, but the intelligent American who reads CHARACTER, as well as newspapers, remembers the day when Roosevelt went to Harriman, got Harriman's money AND INVITED HARRIMAN TO COME TO WASHINGTON AND DEBATE THE NATURE OF A MESSAGE TO BE SENT OUT BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Cantankerous Meekness of Buddha

A Japanese newspaper—the Osaka Manichi—influential and "conservative," prints a truculent anti-American article that is understood to come from the hand of a high official of the empire.

The writer bristles with resentment at what he considers the ambitions of America in the Orient, and gives us warning, in the words of a Japanese proverb, "that even Buddha's meek heart will lose patience at last."

He says that "if the American people repeat their insolence Japan will burst into indignant remonstrance when her national finance is in good condition and her armaments are completed."

That the meekness of Buddha is a thin-skinned and dissembling grace appears from the following passage taken from this remarkable article:

"If any one thinks that America will believe in Japan's permanent good will toward her, because no Japanese speaks of war between the two countries, he is mistaken.

"Americans have eyes and ears and reasoning faculties. Japan will not delude the United States, but only herself, if she thinks she can deceive America by using meek words.

"I earnestly wish that Japan would realize this and that she would definitely extend her navy in readiness for the coming conflict."

This article is merely the most ingenuous and revealing among scores of similar writings that crowd the Japanese press at this moment.

They all are written for the purpose of preparing the mind of the groaning Japanese taxpayer for a new levy of three hundred million yen to pay for an enormous increase in the navy.

The news is common property in the official circles of Tokio that a new naval programme has been determined upon by the Prime Minister and the naval chiefs, providing for the construction of twenty battleships—ten 21,000-ton Dreadnoughts and ten cruisers.

In assaying the true quality of Japanese meekness it should be borne in mind that nobody in Japan has any idea that the American Navy will ever bombard Japanese ports or commit any act of aggression against Japanese territories.

It follows that the patient Buddha is not preparing for a defensive war against the United States, but for a war of another kind.

Now, certain of our peace-loving friends, who disagree with the American as to the best way of making sure of peace, complain of this newspaper for occasionally mentioning the fact that the United States needs more warships in the Pacific.

They say that to speak of war or of warships is to make war, and, presumably, that the idea of a fire engine is the cause of incendiarism.

Let these cavillers now retire into some silent temple or sacred grove and meditate for a single hour on the meekness of Buddha, as revealed in current Japanese events.

Warming the Serpent on the City's Hearthstone

Aesop, that wonderful old dramatist of the follies and tragedies of the human heart, tells a story to show how things that are base and venomous in their nature cannot be conquered by indulgence.

In the fable of the Farmer and the Snake he tells how a compassionate husbandman found a serpent stiff and frozen in the Autumn fields, brought it home in his bosom and warmed it at his fireside.

The serpent, being in its nature a thing of venom and fangs, no sooner felt the life come back into its body than it lifted its menacing head and claimed the hearthstone for its own.

The farmer was wounded and poisoned before he could regain possession of his own house.

SUCH IS THE TRAGEDY OF CORRUPT POLITICS IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK—A TRAGEDY NOW BROUGHT TO ITS CRISIS IN THE ATTEMPTED MURDER OF THE MAYOR OF THE CITY BY A FORMER CITY EMPLOYE.

Mayor Gaynor's removal of certain Tammany employes was a disagreeable but necessary duty, about which there can be no difference of opinion.

All those responsible for the defeat of Tammany Hall received many threatening letters. These threats were treated lightly, but apparently one vindictive thug carried out his purpose.

The fraud and violence long fostered by evil elements in politics, most manifest on election days, finally culminated in attempted assassination.

Every one rejoices that Mayor Gaynor is likely soon to recover.

The Children Who Held Up Their Hands for Temperance

When men support a good movement they are said to "hold up the hands" of its leaders.

We "hold up the hands" of the nation's executive in time of crisis by furnishing soldiers to save the honor of the nation. We "hold up the hands" of city and State officials when we help them in their efforts for municipal progress.

Fathers and mothers "hold up the hands" of society when they lead their children along right paths and inculcate in their hearts sound principles of character and honor. Children "hold up the hands" of their parents when they follow the teachings of those placed over them.

Every parent in Boston and every child in Boston would be the better for it could they have witnessed the holding up of hands yesterday in Franklin Park.

It was the picture of a life-time, that scene at the close of a day's innocent and healthful enjoyment in the park, when a veritable multitude of children—Boston born boys and girls—gathered in solid mass about the platform and repeating the words of a solemn pledge, pronounced by their archbishop, entered the great army of Catholic Total Abstinence.

Not only was the scene filled with rich material to stir the soul and fire the imagination of the thoughtful onlooker; it was a demonstration charged with the deepest significance and the brightest hope to every man and woman who loves this Republic.

Long years ago, a gifted writer, a man endowed with mental well-springs of suggestive thought, gave to the world this:

"Let me make the songs of a nation and I care not who makes the laws."

And a friend of the coiner of this great thought was moved by its force to give to it a supplement. He wrote:

"Give me the young boys and the young girls of the nation: let me have their early training, the moulding of their minds and hearts, and I care not who writes the ballads or who frames the laws."

Both those men were right to the core. The hope of this country, if it is to attain the full height of the dignity and grandeur planned for it by its founders, lies irrevocably in the hands of the children who are now in their teens.

Give the tens of thousands of the children of the present, whenever and wherever practicable, such experience as that shared in by those in Franklin Park and a long stride is each time made towards the working out of many a weary social problem whose shadow across our national sky to-day is black and dark.

Our good men and women of noble impulse, of whatever church or school, who are honestly striving in divers ways and at deep personal sacrifice to make the world of Boston and of New England better, asking only in return the consolation of results, would have gained new hope and heart-strength could their eyes have seen yesterday those upraised right hands and that sea of earnest, fresh, young faces; could their ears have heard the thrilling volume of sound as those tens of thousands of men and women of the years to come spoke the words of the Total Abstinence pledge pronounced by Archbishop O'Connell.

"Give me those children as pledged total abstainers until they are twenty-one," said Father Butler, who founded the Holy Family Temperance League in this diocese and planned the events of yesterday, "and I care not for all the perils that lie before them as they go on through afterlife."

"To save our nation from the pitfalls of the future our people must be a sober people," was the spirit of the words of the national president of the C. T. A. U., Father O'Callaghan of Chicago, in the message telegraphed by him to the Boston American of last Sunday.

"The vice of intemperance against which you wage a holy war is both in itself and in its consequences at the root of most of the evils of our day," said Archbishop O'Connell in his great discourse at the Cathedral to the assembled temperance leaders.

Such words from the lips of leaders so practical, men who are so close to the every day lives of millions of American toilers; such gatherings as that of Franklin Park and the convention now in session at Faneuil Hall, mean untold riches for our national life and for America's progress towards the light.
